

FORMER MAYOR OF FRANKFORT DIES

Max F. Haass Taken By Death After Long Illness; Mayor 20 Yrs.

Max F. Haass, mayor of Frankfort for over 20 years, died Thursday afternoon at one o'clock in his home in Frankfort following a long illness at the age of 75 years.

He was born in Mendota, Ill., October 28, 1863, the son of the late Dr. Emil Haass of Frankfort. With his parents he came to this village as a child.

At the age of 22 years he went West and spent the next five years at Orleans, Nebraska and at Chehalis, Washington, returning to Frankfort in 1890.

He entered in business with his brother George, operating a Drug Store and Grocery. He retired from business in 1917.

On February 7, 1916, he was united in marriage with Miss Lottie R. Peters of Frankfort. To this union two sons were born. Mrs. Haass passed away in 1935.

In civic affairs, Mr. Haass was active first as village clerk, then as mayor which office he held for twenty years. He was also a member of the Board of Directors of the Frankfort State Bank at the time of his death.

Mr. Haass was taken ill about 13 months ago and was confined to bed for 6 months.

Surviving are his two sons, Max Jr., and Darrel G.; two brothers Charles and George; one sister, Mrs. Emma Cadden, all of Frankfort.

Funeral services will be held this Saturday afternoon at two o'clock from the late home, Rev. G. Gerhold officiating. There will be no church services.

Mr. Haass was a member of Mt. Joliet Lodge No. 42 A. F. & A. M., Royal Arch Mason, Knight Templar and Shriner. He was also a member of the Frankfort M. W. A. Camp.

The Knight Templars will participate in the funeral services.

Interment will be made in the family mausoleum in the Pleasant Hill Cemetery at Frankfort.

Tinley Fisherman Bring The Fish

Tinley Park's noted fisherman who since their return from the wilds of Canada, are known as Klondike Dini, Five Shirt Rick and Two Pants Freberg, brought a really wonderful catch of fish not merely fish stories. The boys are going to have a real time at Dini's place in the near future with a big fish fry. This of course is just restricted to the fishermen and their friends.

The reason why Dini has earned the sobriquet of Klondike, is because he brought back quite a selection of ore samples from the gold mines of Canada. These pieces of ore contain tiny specks of gold, while Rick was so cold he couldn't keep warm and that is why he is called Five Shirt Rick, the same applies to Freberg who had to wear two pairs of pants to keep warm.

Next week we are going to run a picture of the boys and their big catch of fish to prove to you that this is not merely a fish story.

New Lenox P.T.A. Plans Activities

The Homemaking Unit of the New Lenox Parent-Teacher Assoc. will hold its October meeting in the home of Mrs. Fred Sperling in the south subdivision, on October 13. Mrs. E. J. Stevens, Homemaking Chairman, will have charge of the meeting. All ladies interested in joining this group for the purposes of study and discussion of problems of the home, child and school are welcome. During the past three years the Homemaking Unit has accomplished considerable work beneficial to the parents and to the school in general. The Unit believes that, in order to send happy, healthy children to school, the Mother in the home must first be informed on the subjects necessary to bring contentment and efficiency to her whole family.

The Parent-Teacher Association of New Lenox will meet in the school auditorium Friday evening, October 14. There will be a business discussion followed by a musical program in charge of Mrs. H. W. Griffin. Refreshments will be served by the P. T. A. ladies at the close of the meeting.

WANTED—Corn picking jobs done by machine, also combining. Rate, $2.25 per acre for corn and beans. Henry C. Bormet, Tinley Pk. p10:14

FOR SALE—Six weeks old pigs, Hamshires, Mrs. Carl J. Bormet, Tinley Park, Ill. p10:14

TINLEY PARK M. E. PASTOR HAS RESIGNED

Rev. Chas. Hedler, who has been serving as pastor of the former Tinley Park German M. E. church and of late also as pastor of the Tinley Park English M. E. church when the two congregations were united, resigned the past week and preached his farewell sermon last Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Hedler is retiring from the ministry. He is having his household goods shipped to Newaga, Mich. where his son is located. The furniture will be stored for over the winter while Rev. and Mrs. Hedler will spend the winter in Florida.

Convention of R.N.A. To Be Held In Mokena

Mokena has the honor of having been chosen as a convention meeting place. The Will County R. N. A. Camps will hold their annual convention in the Mokena public school auditorium the afternoon and evening of Wednesday, October 12th. An excellent program has been prepared with good speakers and other interesting features.

The Mokena R. N. A. camp will be host to the visitors. All the members are invited to attend.

The Woman's Union of the St. John Evangelical church in Mokena will serve the supper commencing at 5:30 p. m.

Selection of Two Premiums Being Offered

The News-Bulletin is offering a selection of a fountain pen or handy hammer outfit. The latter has a hammer, screw driver and awl combination with several different sizes of screw driver blades. These premiums are offered with a year's new or renewal subscription to this paper. Read the display adv. in this issue for more particulars. Mail or bring in your subscriptions and receive one of these fine premiums.

Mail orders require 5c extra for packing of and postage on premium.

Mokena Front Street Improved With A New Seal Coat

This week the front street in Mokena was improved with a new seal coat of asphalt and fine chips. The entire street was resurfaced and a very nice job was done by the contractor Mr. Johnson of Joliet. The work was supervised by village engineer McCoy. The work is to be paid for out of the gas tax money due to Mokena from the state. The next move will be to repair the bad spots on the side streets.

Brown-Erickson Nuptials Set For Saturday, Oct. 15

Wedding invitations have been issued announcing the approaching marriage of Miss Virginia Mae Brown daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown of Mokena to Richard C. Erickson son of Chas. Erickson of Orland township on Saturday, October 15 at 2 o'clock. The ceremony to take place in the St. John Evangelical church at Mokena. The Rev. Theo. Haelele will officiate.

New White Store Will Open Soon

The popular Will County Department Store "The White Store" will open for business the latter part of the month according to the present plans of J. J. Cohen, owner and manager.

The new store will be located in the Sweet Orr Building on North Chicago street in Joliet and will be outstanding for its fine furnishings, excellent stock and real money saving values. Watch for the adv. announcing the Grand Opening Date. The many friends of Mr. Cohen throughout Will county as well as in southern Cook county are glad to know that the White store will soon be in business again.

Political Pot Begins To Boil In Will County Districts

The political pot thruout Will County is starting to boil in earnest. The Republicans have opened their headquarters in Joliet and the various county districts are beginning to hum and rallies are being planned by both the Republicans and Democrats.

Thruout the eastern part of Will County which has been rock ribbed Republican for years, the talk now among the voters is to concentrate on all the Republicans for county offices with the exception of county clerk, which from present indications will go back to Henry Koerner, the present Democratic incumbent who the rural voters feel has made a good record and feel he should be returned.

The voters are most keenly interested in the offices of sheriff and county treasurer. "Jimmy" O'Neill is getting a big play for sheriff and James Bell for county treasurer.

On the Democratic side the supporters of Emmett McGuire for sheriff and Al Kinson for county treasurer and the rest of the Democratic ticket are equally as busy in the country districts working for these candidates.

Tournament To End Ball Season

Before what is expected to be one of the biggest crowds of the year the Orland Park A. C.'s will present their second annual invitational tournament Sunday, October 9. The competing teams will be the Joliet Colored All-Stars, Lockport (The Texas Company) and the southwest suburban league all stars. Each team has been allowed to use outside ball players to strengthen their team. The south west league of all stars will present their strongest available talent with the addition of Martinetti, Moselle and Kolloway, each of whom has been playing in the minor leagues this summer. Lockport will probably start their ace twirler Jerry Adamson with Ray White doing the catching. The first game will start at 12 o'clock and will be between the southwest suburban all stars and Joliet Colored all stars. The winner is to meet the Texas company of Lockport in the second part of the double header. These games promise to give the fans in the southwest territory a real afternoon of thrills so don't miss this thrilling event. Don't forget the time 12 o'clock noon and the place Orland Park.

Lauffer-Scheer Nuptials Solemnized

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Lauffer near Mokena on Saturday September 24th when their daughter, Elizabeth became the bride of Mr. Clarence J. Scheer of New Lenox.

The ceremony was performed at three o'clock in the afternoon with Rev. G. S. Gerhold, pastor of St. Peter's Evangelical church of Frankfort officiating.

The bride wore a rust colored gown with an eggshell color veil and carried an arm bouquet of white gladioli. She was attended by her sister Rosella who wore a gown of royal blue and carried pink gladioli.

The groom was attended by Mr. Clarence Sluiter of Frankfort.

Mrs. Raymond Scher of Monee sang during and preceding the service, "I Love You Truly" and "Oh, Promise Me". She also played the wedding march.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served and a pleasant evening enjoyed by the guests.

Basketball Meeting At Mokena, Oct. 10

Attention Basketball Players. Another meeting will be held Monday evening, Oct. 10 at 7:45. Please meet at Brauns Confectionary. Lets all come out and help start the ball rolling. Club reporter, Max Williams

Pinochle Party

The New Lenox Athletic Club will sponsor a pinochle party at the Urech hall in New Lenox on Friday evening, October 21 at 8 p. m. Every one is cordially invited.

Tinley Dollar Days

Next week end October 14 and 15 will mark the first dollar days in the history of Tinley Park. Watch for the advs. next week of the Tinley business places offering big bargain values.

Even Jitter Bugs To Dance At Big Mokena Home Coming

A special meeting of the Mokena Civic club was held at the Mokena school on Monday evening. Stokes Nebeker, General chairman of the Mokena home coming and harvest festival assigned the members to various committees. Very much enthusiasm was displayed. All the members appeared to be very anxious to make this undertaking a great success. The farmers of Mokena and adjoining communities are being invited to exhibit their choicest hybrid corn, pumpkins, fruits and other vegetables for which ribbons will be awarded. The ladies will not be forgotten, as they also will be invited to exhibit their choicest exhibits of canned fruits and vegetables.

An open air dance platform, approximately 18 by 20 feet is to be used for old time square dancing and the very latest Jitterbug dances.

Farm Bureau members are being contacted and judges will be selected from experienced farmers to make awards for the prizes for farm products.

A very elaborate and extensive program is in the making and Mokena, for the first time in its history will have a real honest to goodness Home Coming.

There will be plenty of entertainment and unlimited supplies of eats and refreshments. Everybody connected with the Civic Association, is vitally interested in promoting this undertaking and hope to make it one of the most outstanding events ever presented in Mokena. Watch this paper for more particulars next week. Mokena invites you.

UNFAIR!

For many years under the Republican administration in Will County, the County Treasurer's office had the personal and real estate assessment lists printed annually in the various newspapers in the county as required by law, but these lists were placed in newspapers which circulated in the townships in which the assessment list originated.

When the Democratic administration came into power, Conrad Wirth county treasurer, promised to follow the same set up, but failed to keep his promise, instead he only placed these lists in newspapers published in the townships in which they originated, but the lists of townships in which no newspaper is printed were placed with papers which in many cases, had little or no circulation in these towns and the tax payers failed to receive the information they are entitled to under the law.

Wirth also followed the same procedure with the delinquent tax lists. When asked why this kind of procedure was being followed and from four to five lists given to certain papers and only one list to others and in one instance this year one of the weekly papers in Will county did not get any of the delinquent tax list work of the township in which it is published, no satisfactory explanation was given.

(Continued back page)

Autoist Draws Stiff Fine For Sassing Tinley Police Chief

That it doesn't pay an autoist to sass the Chief of Police of Tinley Park was discovered Monday by a stranger who was arrested by Chief C. A. Steintagen for speeding thru Tinley on Oak Park ave. Chief Steinhagen pursued the speeder to 159th street before he caught him.

At first he refused to obey the officer's orders and talked back to him, but after sizing up Chief Steinhagen who is over 6 feet tall and has a long arm reach he finally decided it would be the wisest thing to obey the Police Chief's summons. The offender was brought before the local Police Magistrate and assessed a fine of $15.00 and costs. He threatened to appeal the case but so far nothing further has been heard.

Grand Opening of Mokena Beauty Shop Saturday, Oct. 8th

Mokena will have a new beauty shop this week when the Mokena Beauty Shop holds its grand opening on Saturday, October 8th in its location in the R. Hensel Drug Store Building on Front street in Mokena.

Wanda Brandom will be in charge as the operator and will greatly appreciate whatever patronage is accorded her. She has had a lot of practical experience and will conduct an up to date beauty shop. Read the adv. regarding the grand opening on page 4 of this issue.

Plan Two Big Nights of Fun For Mokena

Plans for 2 big nights of entertainment are going ahead fast. Wednesday evening at the regular meeting of the M. B. P. A. the members discussed ways and means of making this one of the most enjoyable events ever scheduled for Mokena. Everyone enjoys a good amateur show and plans are being made to make this the best possible, which reminds us—Have you sent in your name? Amateur performers in every line, you are welcome on our program, regardless of where you live. Just phone 61 W or drop a card to Box 123, Mokena.

Mokena Board Meets Tues. Night

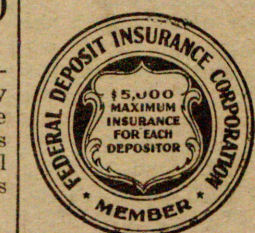

The Mokena village board will hold their monthly meeting next Tuesday evening.

ENTERTAIN LADIES AID

Mrs. Hugo Neithammer will entertain the Mokena M. E. Ladies Aid Society in the home of Mrs. Elmer Cooper Thursday October 13.

Your Bank Account Is Your Stabilizer . . .

IT PAYS IN MANY WAYS FOR YOU TO MAINTAIN A REGULAR BANK ACCOUNT!

You are assisting in building up our community and promoting prosperous and healthful conditions for the operations of business.

You are building a credit reputation for yourself which may prove of great value to you in the future.

OPEN AN ACCOUNT HERE WITHOUT DELAY. IN ADDITION TO ITS CONVENIENCE AND SAFETY IT POINTS THE WAY TO YOUR PERSONAL STABILITY IN THIS COMMUNITY.

ORLAND STATE BANK

We offer a complete banking service

TELEPHONE 61

BANNER SERIAL FICTION

She Painted Her Face

A story of love and intrigue . . . by DORNFORD YATES

© Dornford Yates

WNU Service

CHAPTER VI—Continued

—12—

I was six steps short of the landing which gave to the upper door, when Percy spoke—to bring my heart into my mouth.

"Oh, and bring my pistol, damn you. It's next to the torch."

The man was beyond the curtains masking the upper door.

Herrick and I stopped dead.

An instant later the curtains were dashed apart and a transient glimmer of light revealed our enemy.

Then—

"Who said it was shut?" he screeched. "It's open wide. They've done it on you, you poisonous fools. Where's Elgar? Get hold of Elgar and tell him to watch the drive."

With that, he thrust into the tower.

He could, of course, see nothing, but his foot at once encountered the heavy length of carpet which we had laid on the steps.

"Hullo! What's this?" he muttered.

I heard him pass on to the carpet, but what further movement he made I could not tell, for the pile was tremendously thick and deadened all sound.

With Herrick one step below me, I crouched there, straining my ears. We were just clear of the carpet, standing upon the stone.

Then Virgil spoke again—and made me jump like a foal.

"God in heaven," he yelled. "Why don't you bring that torch?"

The man was three steps above me—and coming down.

I dared not try to hit him—I could not see; but, quick as a flash, I seized the end of the carpet and jerked it downstairs towards me with all my might.

His feet whipped beneath him, with a foul but forgivable oath, Percy Virgil fell violently on to his back. As he did so, still holding the carpet, I flung myself full upon him, enveloping him in its folds. Moved by some brilliant instinct, Herrick fought his way past us, and, seizing the head of the carpet, flung this over and down.

Remembering Percy's orders to Elgar, I hurried myself up to the doorway and on to the landing beyond.

"Well done," breathed Herrick. "Which way?"

The mighty landing was empty, but, as we bolted across, a man came full tilt up the staircase, the head of which was six feet from Elizabeth's door.

So dim was the light and he was making such haste that though we must almost have met, I think he would have let us go by, but I dared not take the risk, and hit him, very reluctantly, full on the jaw.

As he crumpled and fell downstairs, Elizabeth's door was opened, and Herrick and I passed in.

Thirty seconds later, the four of us left the castle by way of the staircase—turret by which, two nights before, we had hoped to come in. The drive was clear. If Elgar had had his orders, he had not yet had time to carry them out. We darted across the gravel, slipped down the steps to the garden and hastened, Elizabeth leading, to where the walk began that led to the belvedere.

Twenty minutes later Winter, still breathing goodwill, was leading us down to where he had berthed the car.

If our narrow escape had shocked us, the drive to Raven ministered to our minds.

Arrived there, Herrick found a note addressed to him.

Sir,

I am told that you are returning to Raven tonight. A man of the name of Max Bracher, was found by Salzburg yesterday afternoon. He corresponds to your description of the man of that Christian name. Your identification of him is desired, and I beg you will visit Salzburg without delay. When found, he had been dead for some hours, shot through the back.

Your obedient servant,
Sergeant of Police.

I confess that from this time on a medieval vigilance ruled whatsoever we did.

Herrick visited Salzburg against his will, and viewed the corpse of the man we had known as Max. No evidence had been discovered—against Virgil or anyone else. Even the bullet was useless, for it had spread irreparably. The same day, Thursday, Elizabeth, resting at Raven, laid her plans. I sat by her side in the meadows, and listened—and watched the woods.

The Duchess of Whelp was at Tracery, 35 miles from Innsbruck and 90 from where we lay. Tales out of number were told of the state she had kept, of the things she had said and done, of the efforts which had been made to obtain an invitation to enter her house. If the half were true, it is clear that for years before the War, the Chateau of Tracery sheltered a second Court.

And now, though she shut herself up, her writ still ran; and though the "fountain of honor" no longer played, its peaceful pool was reflecting, as never before, the vivid presence now nearly eighty years old.

"I shall go there tomorrow," said my lady. "And you, if you please, will drive me—there and back. At least, we'll be breaking a record. No one's gone uninvited to Tracery for certainly fifty years."

"With all my heart," said I. "But won't you take Winter, too? I mean, it'll look more important than if you just roll up with me at the wheel."

Elizabeth seemed to reflect.

At length—

"Perhaps you're right," she murmured, pulling the grass. "I wish I knew what to expect. I know that she visited Brief very shortly before I was born, and my grandfather knew her well; but my—my uncle has never seen her since Mother was killed."

I sat up at that.

"Are you sure that he saw her before?"

Elizabeth started, and a hand went up to her head.

"Good heavens," she breathed.

"Exactly," said I. "I'll lay he's never set eyes on the Duchess of roof-water showed where the gutters were choked.

This I found peculiar, for rumor had it the Duchess of Whelp was rich. But I think the truth was this—that when she had closed her Court, she had determined to let its residence go. What was the setting to her, when the jewel was gone?

Nearly an hour had gone by, when the door was opened again and the major-domo appeared and began to descend the steps. Expecting some message, I rose and went to meet him, and then I saw that he was an Englishman.

As I approached, he stood still.

"Sir," he said, with a bow, "Her Grace desires to see you. If you please, I will show you the way to her private rooms."

His announcement took me aback, as well it might; but, though the summons shook me, my heart leaped up, for it meant that "Old Harry's" interest had been aroused. And that was everything.

To my surprise, three footmen

the passage I had observed. Through this the woman pointed, and stood back against the wall, for me to go by. I passed her and entered the room, and the door behind me was shut.

I stood in a spacious bedroom, splendidly furnished in the Italian style. Gold leaf, and velvet and beautifully painted wood; lantern and plaque and mirror; silver, dusky crimson and mellowed green made up a stately harmony of lovely things. In their midst, commanding them all from its dais, a great state bedstead stood with its head to the wall. And sitting up in the bed was Her Grace the Duchess of Whelp.

The room was full of light, and I saw her well. A highly elaborate coiffure attired her head, and a richly embroidered vesture swathed her from throat to wrist, but once I had seen her face, I had no eyes for anything else in that room. That this was painted was nothing—motley could not diminish the light of her countenance. Her cheeks were raddled, her lashes were stiff and laden, her lips were a scarlet blotch; but the visage thus overlaid was above these things. It was handsome as an eagle's is handsome—with a cold majesty of feature, heedless of the sense of minor which it imposed.

I bowed—something awkwardly, dimly aware of Elizabeth sitting beside the bed and smiling at me to tell me that all was well.

Old Harry inclined her head.

"How d'you do, Mr. Exon. Come here, if you please."

I stepped to her side, and she put out a hand which was blazing with three magnificent rings.

I took the fingers in mine and put them to my lips.

"I am told you're a man of action," she said, "and so it seems. But you're not very quick off the mark." She tapped the papers that lay on her delicate quilt. "This Gering business. Why did you wait so long?"

"For two reasons, madam," said I. "First, for several months I was not myself. I found life hard to handle and had no brains to spare for anything else. And then I shrank from interference with a state of affairs which had been established so long."

"And then you saw Percy Virgil?"

"Yes," said I. "He's—he's not a nice-looking man."

"He'd look very well from a galloos," observed the Duchess of Whelp. She turned to Elizabeth. "What made you allow Mr. Exon to carry you off?"

"That," said Elizabeth, "is what I keep asking him."

"Sex," said Old Harry, firmly. "You liked subjecting yourself to the strength of the male. It's been done before. The Sabines kicked and screamed for the look of the thing; as a matter of hard fact, they were tickled to death." She turned upon me. "And what do you mean, Richard Exon, by hiding this lady at Raven for over a week?"

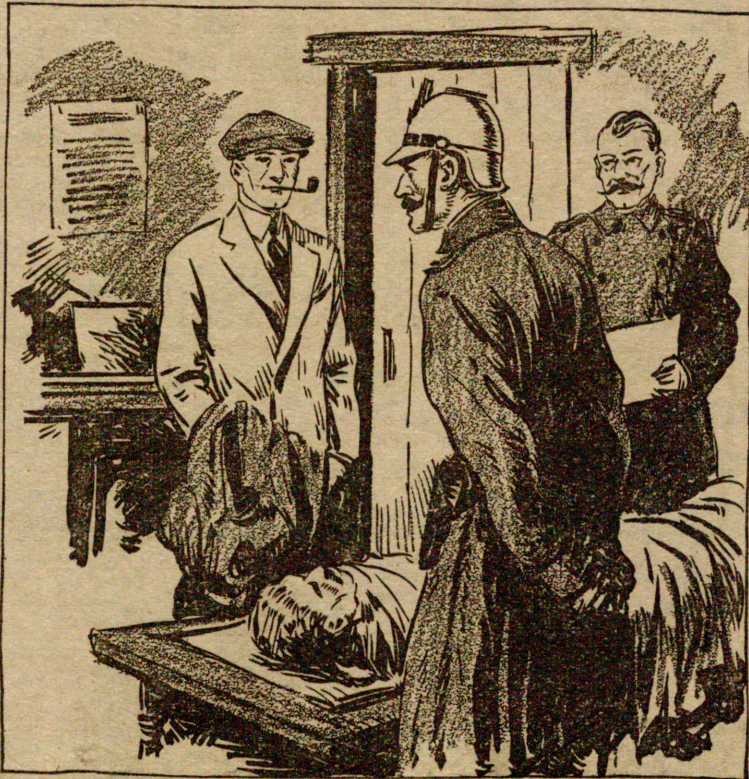

Her attack was so sudden that I was taken aback.

"Madam," said I, "it seemed the best thing to do."

"Did it, indeed?" said Old Harry. "Well, God preserve us all from your benevolence. The Lady Elizabeth Virgil, for whom the cities of Europe are being surreptitiously scoured, sharing two young men's lodgings ten miles from her father's house! And who's this Herrick person? I knew a Naseby once . . ."

"He's one of the best," said I. "And he pulls far more than his weight. As a matter of fact, he's the present Lord Naseby's heir."

(TO BE CONTINUED)

No Evidence Had Been Discovered.

Whelp. Your father saw her—and knew her: but the younger son—the 'bad hat'—was not at Brief when she came. He can't deny her visit, because he knows it took place. It was a great occasion. Brief was delighted to honor so rare a guest. And so your uncle is bound to pretend he was there. But he wasn't—because he isn't the man he pretends to be: and all he knows of her visit is what he's picked up from the staff."

"That's right," said Elizabeth, slowly, still pulling the grass. "What a fool you must think me for not having seen it myself!"

"How can you?" I cried. "I've known the truth for a year, and you for less than a week."

At eleven o'clock the next day I stood with my hat in my hands at the foot of Tracery's steps. Elizabeth stood at their head, some ten feet up. We were waiting for the door to be opened, in some suspense.

At last the door was opened, and a man all in black, with knee-breeches, inclined his head.

His manner was ceremonious and very polite, but left in my mind no doubt that he did not mean to admit "The Lady Elizabeth Virgil" or anyone else.

When he had finished speaking, I saw my lady nod. Then she held out the little packet she had in her hand. A salver appeared from nowhere . . .

I do not know what she said, as she laid the packet down, but after a little I saw the man bow and turn and Elizabeth cross the threshold into the hall.

At least, she was in: but, as the door was shut and I turned to the car, I confess I felt far from sure that she was to be received. And if she was not, what then? The packet contained no less than the king's great ring, with which she was hoping to gain the access she so much desired. If the Duchess of Whelp was scrupulous, well and good; but if she was not, Elizabeth would be dismissed—and the ring was gone. And "Old Harry" might well be hostile to a girl that made bold to remind her that the bearings which Tracery flaunted were rightly hers.

I sat down on a step of the Rolls and lighted a cigarette, while Winter stood like a statue beside his charge, determined, I think, to show that he could maintain the pace which the major-domo had set.

The house was imposing, but grim, and plainly had not been cared for for several years. Massively built of stone, wind and weather could do it but little harm, but rust was corrupting the bars to the lower windows and the stain of stood at the door, but the echoing hall within was that of a house whose owner has gone abroad. Furniture and pictures were shrouded and carpets rolled, but the marble floor was spotless and there was no sign of dust.

We passed up a glorious staircase, the carpet of which was gone, by draped or hooded statues and sheeted tapestry, to enter a sunlit gallery down which three four-in-hands could have passed abreast. At the gallery's farther end a woman-servant was standing beside a door. To her I was delivered and at once she ushered me into a drawing-room. This was small and stiff, but, though it showed no sign of having been lately used, its furniture was not shrouded and a carpet covered the floor.

The woman, who looked very sour, addressed me in German and indicated a chair, and, when I had taken my seat, she passed to another door. As she opened this, I saw that it gave to a passage some six feet long. She closed the door behind her as though, I thought, she was happy to shut me out, and I can only suppose that I looked as much out of my depth as indeed I felt. Within 30 seconds, however, the door was opened again, and she beckoned to me to approach. As I did so, I saw that a second door was now open at the farther end of the passage I had observed. Through this the woman pointed, and stood back against the wall, for me to go by. I passed her and entered the room, and the door behind me was shut.

I stood in a spacious bedroom, splendidly furnished in the Italian style. Gold leaf, and velvet and beautifully painted wood; lantern and plaque and mirror; silver, dusky crimson and mellowed green made up a stately harmony of lovely things. In their midst, commanding them all from its dais, a great state bedstead stood with its head to the wall. And sitting up in the bed was Her Grace the Duchess of Whelp.

The room was full of light, and I saw her well. A highly elaborate coiffure attired her head, and a richly embroidered vesture swathed her from throat to wrist, but once I had seen her face, I had no eyes for anything else in that room. That this was painted was nothing—motley could not diminish the light of her countenance. Her cheeks were raddled, her lashes were stiff and laden, her lips were a scarlet blotch; but the visage thus overlaid was above these things. It was handsome as an eagle's is handsome—with a cold majesty of feature, heedless of the sense of minor which it imposed.

I bowed—something awkwardly, dimly aware of Elizabeth sitting beside the bed and smiling at me to tell me that all was well.

Old Harry inclined her head.

"How d'you do, Mr. Exon. Come here, if you please."

I stepped to her side, and she put out a hand which was blazing with three magnificent rings.

I took the fingers in mine and put them to my lips.

"I am told you're a man of action," she said, "and so it seems. But you're not very quick off the mark." She tapped the papers that lay on her delicate quilt. "This Gering business. Why did you wait so long?"

"For two reasons, madam," said I. "First, for several months I was not myself. I found life hard to handle and had no brains to spare for anything else. And then I shrank from interference with a state of affairs which had been established so long."

"And then you saw Percy Virgil?"

"Yes," said I. "He's—he's not a nice-looking man."

"He'd look very well from a galloos," observed the Duchess of Whelp. She turned to Elizabeth. "What made you allow Mr. Exon to carry you off?"

"That," said Elizabeth, "is what I keep asking him."

"Sex," said Old Harry, firmly. "You liked subjecting yourself to the strength of the male. It's been done before. The Sabines kicked and screamed for the look of the thing; as a matter of hard fact, they were tickled to death." She turned upon me. "And what do you mean, Richard Exon, by hiding this lady at Raven for over a week?"

Her attack was so sudden that I was taken aback.

"Madam," said I, "it seemed the best thing to do."

"Did it, indeed?" said Old Harry. "Well, God preserve us all from your benevolence. The Lady Elizabeth Virgil, for whom the cities of Europe are being surreptitiously scoured, sharing two young men's lodgings ten miles from her father's house! And who's this Herrick person? I knew a Naseby once . . ."

"He's one of the best," said I. "And he pulls far more than his weight. As a matter of fact, he's the present Lord Naseby's heir."

(TO BE CONTINUED)

Anglers Do Not Agree on Ability of Fish to See, Hear, Feel, Taste, Smell

What is the highest developed sense possessed by a fish—sight, hearing, smell or taste? This subject is frequently discussed in fishing camps, but the anglers never agree. Most of them base their arguments on observations made while fishing. Opinions differ on various species of fish, but those who hold that sight is the most important seem to be in the majority, observes Albert Stoll Jr., writing in the Detroit News.

The structure of a fish's eye is well adapted to the water element they inhabit. This sense perhaps is their greatest means of protection against all predators, including man. All of us have seen trout dart away from shadows cast by the fisherman as he travels the bottom or shore of the streams. Likewise in still fishing schools of small fish as well as solitary mature specimens will quickly scurry away when they observe the slightest move in the boat.

Many fishermen believe that fish are unable to hear under water but vibrations caused by loud noises might drive them to shelter, which is often mistaken for hearing. If they do not see the fisherman they seldom move even if loud talking is taking place.

As to smell and taste, fish certainly must possess these senses to some degree. Fishermen often observe fish taking food into their mouths and it is immediately expelled. On other occasions they do not hesitate to swallow the food immediately if it proves pleasing to the taste.

But to determine accurately how their senses rate in importance is still unsettled, as is the question: Do fish feel pain when hooked?

Latin-America

Latin-America comprises all those portions of this hemisphere to the south of the United States in which one or another of the Latin languages is the native tongue. It includes Brazil, which speaks Portuguese; Haiti, which speaks French; Porto Rico, Spanish-speaking dependency of the United States, and the eighteen Spanish-speaking republics from the Rio Grande to Cape Horn. It is not usually considered to include any of the European colonial possessions.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
© Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for October 9

SPIRITUAL WORSHIP

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:4-6; 32:1-8; John 4:19-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth.—John 4:24.

"The First Commandment bids us to worship God exclusively; the Second bids us to worship Him spiritually. The First Commandment forbids us to worship false gods; the Second forbids us to worship the true God under false forms" (Farar). Israel had lived among the Egyptians, a people known for their worship of images, and was about to enter into Canaan where there were many false gods. The Lord was therefore careful not only to forbid the worship of other gods, but also to forbid the making of images of any kind, whether they represented the many gods of heathendom, or were attempts to symbolize the true God. In studying this lesson we need to exercise care lest we miss the point by talking only of the gods of wood and stone which the heathen worship, and fail to apply the truth to any improper use of images which may prevail in our land and in the present day. Let us lay aside any preconceived notions and face the facts in the light of God's Word.

I. True Worship Required (Exod. 20:4-6).

This commandment expressly forbids idolatry in any form. The injunction is twofold. (1) Men are forbidden to make any material likeness which to them represents a being to be worshiped. It matters not whether it be an image of what men believe God to be like, or the image of an angelic being, a heavenly body, in fact "anything that is in the heaven above," or on the earth—such as a man or animal; or under the water—such as a fish. (2) If such objects have been made either by ourselves or others we may not bow down to them, nor render any service to them. Let us all examine our religious ceremonies and practices in the light of God's commandment.

Observe that obedience to this command brings rich blessing to "thousands" (v. 6), whereas disobedience is a curse not only to the man who disobeys, but also to his descendants. Spiritual blight so often runs through whole families, while spiritual life just as often blesses those who follow us. Blessed is the man who gives his children and his children's children a true spiritual heritage, but woe be unto that man who passes on the darkness and spiritual death of unbelief to his children!

II. False Worship Established (Exod. 32:1-8).

It comes to us as a real shock that a people so highly privileged, so well-instructed and so ably led as Israel should turn to idolatry. The story reveals the depravity of the human heart. Their excuse that Moses was gone was only an excuse without foundation. They did what their hearts wanted to do, and they used his absence to put forward their wicked desires.

Let us be careful lest we be misled or indeed, mislead ourselves into creating a God after the concept of our own heart and mind. We, like Israel, may be tempted to "make us gods" to which we will bow down and worship. It may not be out of place at this point to warn against a folly which seems to have laid hold of the church, that of almost deifying our Christian leaders. A man who is called to speak for God is a highly privileged man, worthy of our support and our respect. But let us remember that he is only a servant, an instrument in God's hand, and let us never be guilty of worshipping and serving "the creature more than the Creator, who is blessed forever" (Rom. 1:25).

III. True Worship Defined (John 4:19-24).

One would suppose that a truth so vital and fundamental as that stated in these verses would long since have completely saturated the life of the church as well as of the individual believer. "God is a Spirit, and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth."

Even in this year of our Lord 1938, countless men and women still believe that worship has something to do with place (vv. 20, 21) or race (v. 22) or some other external device or formula. What a pity that this should be true when the gracious and delightful way to worship is through personal spiritual communion between God and man.

Deadening formalism is not our only enemy. There is the powerless preaching of modernism—and in all honesty must we not admit that even some so-called fundamentalism has in many respects lost the true spirit of the faith for which it rightly contends. We who cherish the truth of God's Word will shun modern liberalism. We may not be tempted to obscure the worship of God by formalism. But we may be in danger of a dead orthodoxy, being as someone said "orthodox about everything except I Corinthians 13"—or failing to worship God in spirit and in truth and not living out that spirit in loving service to our brethren.

CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT

HAIR TREATMENT

Guaranteed Hair Treatment. 10 Treatments for St. Will remedy condition causing baldness, remove dandruff, promote growth or money refunded. Eckler, La Grange, Ill.

BOOKS, CATALOGUES

SMITH'S Parliamentary Law, boiled down (Copyrighted), 10c (3 for 25c). C. N. SMITH, Atty., Stovall Bldg., Tampa, Fla.

REMEDY

Don't Suffer With Your Feet Use SUREFOOT

For Athlete's Feet—Ingrown Nails—Corns and Calluses SUREFOOT is new and different. No bindings or pads necessary. Simply apply this thin clear liquid with glass rod attached to stopper. No bother. Dries almost instantly. Is not sticky and will not form a coating. SUREFOOT—does the job right. Order your bottle now. Send 86c in coin. Prompt attention and quick delivery assured.
MONEY BACK GUARANTEE
SURE FOOT INC. 407 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Sun Ruins Mirrors.—Place mirrors in a position where the sun will not shine on them for any length of time. Heat causes the quick-silver on the back of a mirror to crumble.

Testing a Pillow.—One test of a good pillow is to press it in the center; the more quickly and fully the pillow comes back to its original shape and size, the better are the feathers.

Lengthen Life of Towels.—Machine a piece of tape along each side of your roller towels before you use them.

When Washing Silk Stockings.—Slip on a pair of rubber gloves when washing stockings. There will then be no danger of catching the silk and causing a ladder.

Stiff Curtains.—To stiffen net or marquisette curtains take 5 cents' worth of gum arabic, soak it in three quarts of water overnight and use instead of starch.

Hand Powder.—Hot hands can be refreshed with a powder made of two parts talcum powder mixed with one part borax.

New Farm Program

Radio promotion of Goodyear products for farm use began September 26 over a huge Blue network of 48 broadcasting stations of the National Broadcasting company. Fifteen-minute daily sectional programs will be broadcast each Monday to Friday, inclusive, from 1:15 to 1:30 p. m. eastern standard time, 12:15 to 12:30 p. m. central standard time and 11:15 to 11:30 a. m. mountain standard time to farmers living between the Atlantic ocean and the Rocky mountains, and from Texas to Canada.

The new Goodyear broadcasts will supplement the National Farm and Home Hour, which for ten years has given American farmers up-to-the-minute news and expert counsel on rural problems. The new broadcast immediately follows the Farm and Home Hour program.

Information of vital local importance, including weather forecasts, shipping advice, commodity prices, sectional crop conditions and other such items will be featured in these regional broadcasts. Complete regional offices, competently staffed, and equipped to gather and make available the necessary regional news and information, will be set up and maintained. These will be in charge of farm experts who also will direct the program and see that they are keyed to local needs.—Adv.

NERVOUS?

Do you feel so nervous you want to scream? Are you cross and irritable? Do you scold those dearest to you?

If your nerves are on edge and you feel you need a good general system tonic, try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women.

For over 60 years one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with reliable Pinkham's Compound. It helps nature build up more physical resistance and thus helps calm quivering nerves and lessen discomforts from annoying symptoms which often accompany female functional disorders.

Why not give it a chance to help YOU? Over one million women have written in reporting wonderful benefits from Pinkham's Compound.

HELP KIDNEYS

For 25c Coin or Stamps I will mail you a recipe to prepare a simple tea at home from a vegetable rich in iron and potash at a cost of less than one cent per day that is giving relief to a multitude of sufferers.
John Alden Standish, Monrovia, Calif.

CLASSIFIED

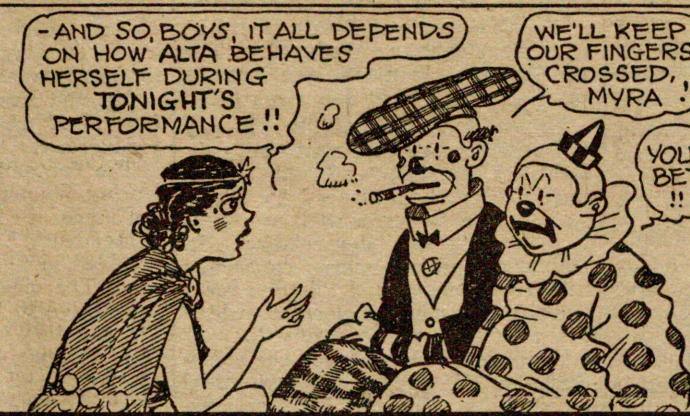

AD

Fun for the Whole Family

BIG TOP "Silk," the ringmaster, seeking revenge for the elephant's attack on him, has forbidden "Speed" to give her any water.

MEANWHILE, MYRA TOLD "FLIP" AND "BUTCH" ABOUT HER TALK WITH JEFF BANGS...

JUST THEN "SKOOKIE" THE EDUCATED CHIMPANZEE, DROPPED IN FOR HIS DAILY VISIT WITH MYRA...

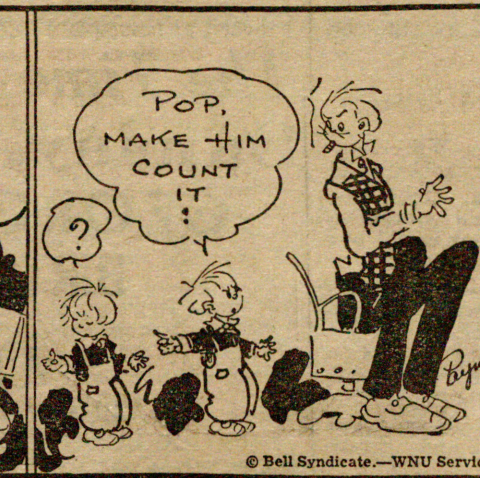

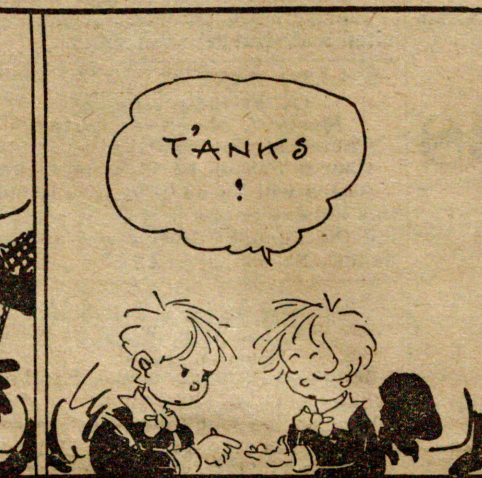

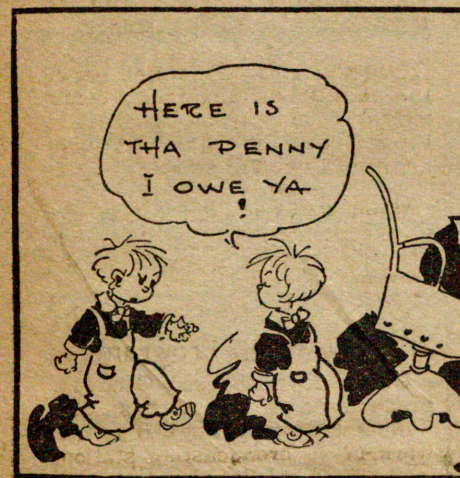

By ED WHEELAN

LALA PALOOZA The Society Page Missed Something

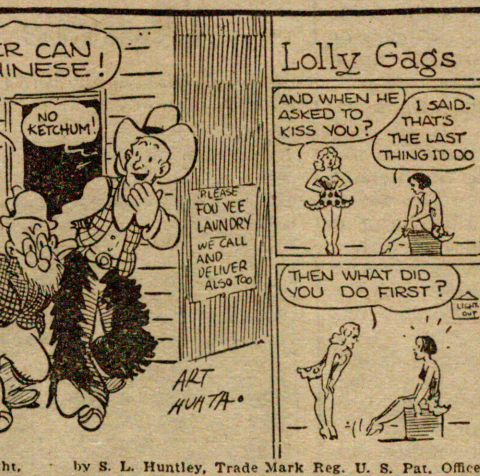

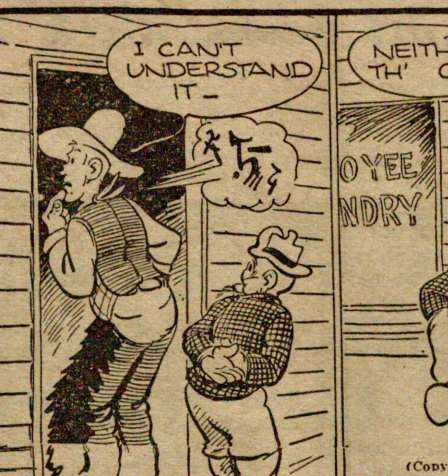

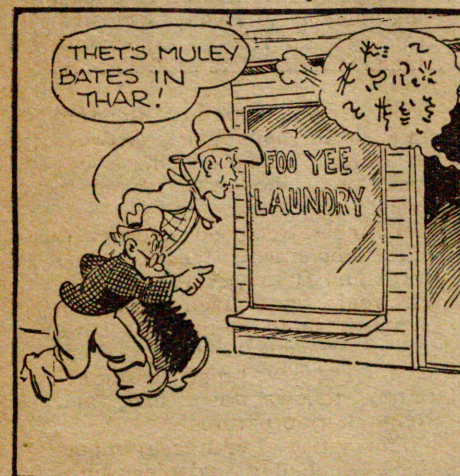

By RUBE GOLDBERG

S'MATTER POP— You Can't Put Anything Over on Willyum

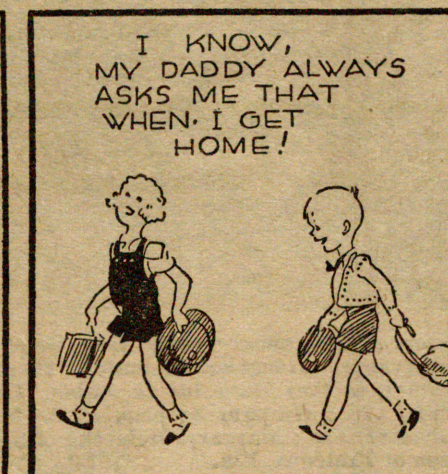

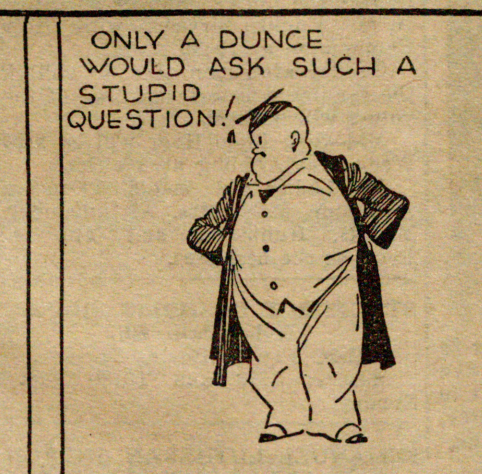

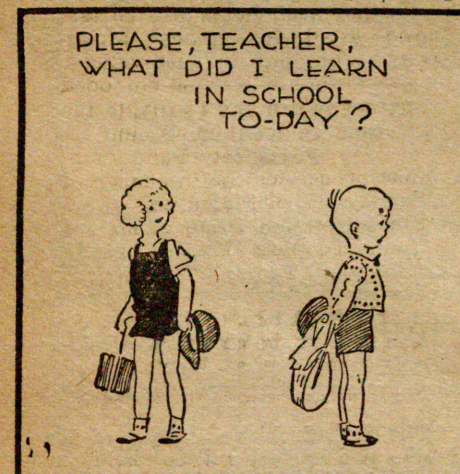

By C. M. PAYNE

MESCAL IKE By S. L. HUNTLEY

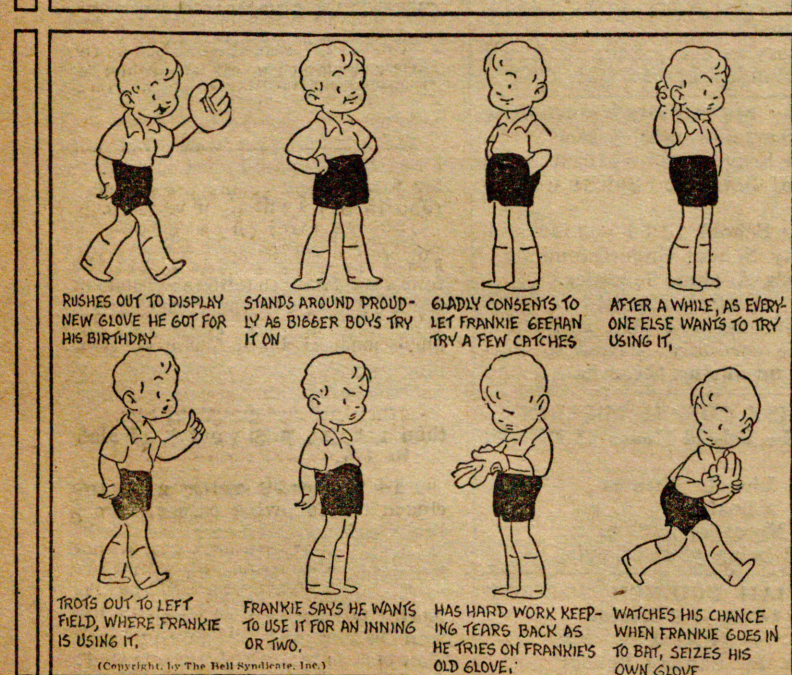

That Makes It Even

POP— Home Training's Responsible

By J. MILLAR WATT

NEW GLOVE By GLUYAS WILLIAMS

Every Dog Has His Day

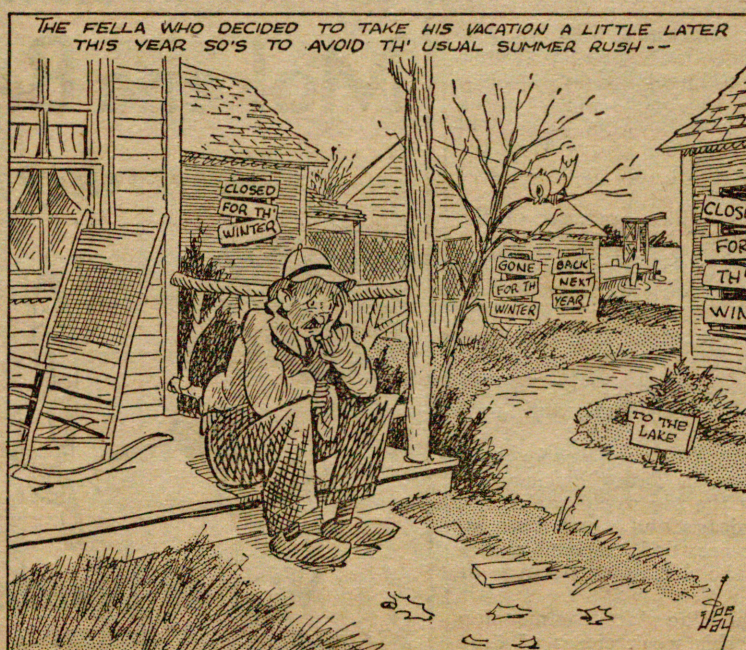

The grimy little boy walked up to the butcher and thrust out a note. This is what the butcher read: "Please give Johnny 10 cents worth of dog meat on account of last time papa got sick."—Washington Post.

The Truth Will Out
The hostess had trouble in getting Mr. Harper to sing. After the song had been given she came up with a smiling face to her guest and made the ambiguous remark: "Now, Mr. Harper, you must never tell me again that you cannot sing—I know now!"

The Usual Way
"Did he take his misfortunes like a man?"
"Yes. He laid the blame on his wife."

Taken for Granted
Fred—Last night I dreamt that I married the most beautiful woman in the world.
Maude—Were we happy?

Curse of Progress

Practical and Pretty At-Home Wearables

YOU'LL be indoors more from now on—busy at your own fire-side. So it's time to make yourself some pretty new work clothes. Here are some that combine comfort and practicality, and they are so easy to make that even if this is your first sewing venture, you'll succeed beautifully. The dress, you'll notice, is a diagram design that even the inexperienced can finish in a few hours.

Slenderizing House Dress.

Everything about this dress is designed for working comfort. The waistline, although it looks slim because it's drawn in by darts, is unhampering and easy. The skirt gives enough leeway to stoop and climb and stretch. The armholes are ample, the sleeves short and loose. This dress is easy to do up, too, because it fastens in the front, and can be laid out flat on the board. Its utter simplicity, long lines and deep v-neck make you look slimmer than you are. Make it of calico, percale, linen or gingham.

Three Pretty Aprons.

Any of the three of them will be mighty handy to have all fresh and ready, when you want to prepare afternoon tea or a hasty pick-up supper for unexpected guests. Each of them protects the front of you efficiently, and looks so crisp, feminine and attractive. Make several sets—you'll want some for yourself, and also to put away for gifts. They're so pretty for bridge prizes, and for engagement remembrances. Choose batiste, dotted Swiss, lawn or dimity.

The Patterns.

1615 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 38 requires 4 1/4 yards of 35-inch material. Contrasting cuffs would take 1/2 yard.

1595 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires, for apron No. 1, 1 1/2 yards of 35-inch material and 6 yards of ricrac braid; for apron No. 2, 1 1/2 yards of 35-inch material with 5 1/4 yards braid; for apron No. 3, 1 1/2 yards of 35-inch material, with 11 yards of braid.

Fall and Winter Fashion Book.

The new 32-page Fall and Winter Pattern Book which shows photographs of the dresses being worn is now out. (One pattern and the Fall and Winter Pattern Book—25 cents.) You can order the book separately for 15 cents.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Way of Thought

Man is a thinking being, whether he will or no. All he can do is to turn his thoughts the best way.—Temple.

CONSTIPATED?

Here is Amazing Relief for Conditions Due to Sluggish Bowels. Nature's Remedy If you think all laxatives are alike, just try this all vegetable laxative. No mild, thorough, refreshing, invigorating. Dependable relief from sick headaches, bilious spells, tired feeling when associated with constipation. Without Risk get a 25c box of NR from your favorite drug store. Make the test—then if not delighted, return the box to us. We will refund the purchase price. That's fair. Get NR Tablets today. NR TO-NIGHT TOMORROW AIRCRAFT. QUICK RELIEF FOR ACID INDIGESTION

THE CHEERFUL CHERUB

I love the days of cloud and rain With everything in mist half-hid. When motor cars go gliding past It thrills me so to see them skid. R. M. CANN

THE NEWS-BULLETIN

Published Every Friday at
MOKENA, ILLINOIS

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Mokena, Illinois, under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Wm. Semmler, Editor and Publisher

ALBERT M. LEVY, INC.
Advertising Representatives
185 N. Wabash Ave. Suite 901.
Phone: State 6326

FRIDAY OCTOBER 7, 1938

WANT ADS.

FOR SALE—Westinghouse Electric roaster; set restaurant table dishes, about 155 pieces; Silex; 22 foot linoleum runner; 4 menu covers; small cupboard; 2 five-row crystal light fixtures; tablecloths. Miller's Restaurant, Orland Park, Ill. 1c

CHOICE HEREFORD STEERS. Weaned calves, Yearlings and Two's. T. B. Tested, Truck or Carloads. Priced to sell. Also heifers. Buy direct from owner. Write, wire or phone. Bert Nason, Birmingham, Ia.

FOR SALE—Universal heating stove Mrs. Clarence Carlson, Orland Park, Ill. 1c

FOR RENT or SALE - 4 room house with bath on one half acre lot. C. Brown, 175th and Highland. 1p

FOR SALE—Heatrola. Inquire at barbershop, Frankfort, Ill. 2c

FOR SALE - Winter pears, place your order now. Mrs. Joe Lehnert, Mokena, Ill., Tel. 52-J-1 c10:7

Will do your washing and ironing at my home. Mrs. A. Stelter, 17349 68th street, Tinley Park p10:7

FOR SALE—Six weeks old pigs. J. A. Fahrenholz. Tel. Tinley Park 38-W-2 p10:7

FOR RENT—3 rooms. Electricity, running water, reasonable. Smid. 3319 Sangamon, Steger. c10:7

FOR SALE—Duroc Jersey stock hog. Phone 65 L. John Kestel, Manhattan. c10:7

FOR SALE—Garbage burner in good condition. $4.00. J. Mulken. 18144 S. Oak Park Ave. Tinley Park. p10:7

FOR SALE—Young pigs. Chas. Breitbarth, Tinley Park. Tel. 34-J-1 p10:7

FOR SALE—Colt and spring pigs. 2 1/2 miles southeast of Frankfort. Frank Schoen. Call after 6 p. m. p10:7

FOR RENT—Purple Candle Restaurant partially equipped, located on 143rd street at Southwest highway. Two dining rooms, kitchen, two bedrooms with bath. Requires cash investment of approximately $100. Rental $25.00 Month. Roy Loebe, Tel. Orland 86. c10:7

RADIO and Electrical Repairs—K. Olson, 17133, 67th Court, Tinley Park, Ill. Tel. T. P. 18-W. p10:14

FOR SALE—4 room size circulating heater. Ezra Marti, New Lenox, Tel. Frankfort, 65-R1. c10:14

FOR RENT or SALE—4 room house with bath, on one half acre lot. C. Brown, 175th and Highland. p 10:21

FOR SALE—Heater, coal or wood with two large doors, used a year. Mrs. John Fitzer, New Lenox, Ill. p10:14

WANTED—Excavating, tiling drain work. Contract work includes free surveying. Five cents a rod discount on all work contracted in September. Peck-the-Tiler (Roy Hannum) 6724 North St., Tinley Park, Ill.

ESTIMATES FURNISHED on all kinds of plastering, large or small. Phone, Robinson, Tinley Park, 32M1 ctf

Road and Bridge Laws of Illinois

"Section 1. Any association, society, person or persons may, upon obtaining a permit from the Department of Public Works and Buildings and the consent in writing of the owners of adjacent property plant or set out trees, shrubs, plants and or flowers in or upon the right of way of State highways being maintained by the Department of Public Works and Buildings, provided that no such tree, shrub, or flower shall be permitted to obstruct the vision of persons traveling upon or across such highways.

Section 2. Whoever wilfully drives upon, picks, removes, destroys, cuts down, or in any manner injures any tree, shrub, plant and or flower planted or growing upon any such State highway pursuant to the provisions of Section 1 of this Act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than one dollar nor more than one hundred dollars; provided, however, that the provisions of this section shall not preclude the Department of Public Works and Buildings from trimming, transplanting, or removing such trees, shrubs, plants and or flowers when necessary, in the discretion of the department, to facilitate the use of such highways for public travel." (Approved July 3, 1931). Released August 31, 1938, by Albin Gries, Landscape Engineer, Division of Highways, Springfield, Illinois.

TINLEY PARK

Jack Swisher, after pulling against the Cubs during the last part of the season, still has the honor and pleasure of being invited to attend the opening game of the world series. Jack came back with a lot of praise for the Yankees.

The Tinley Park Methodist Ladies Aid will hold their chicken supper and bazaar in Saenger hall on Tuesday October 25th from 5 to 8 p. m. BAND ORGANIZED FOR YEAR The Tinley Park school band met after school Wednesday and organized the work of the band for the year. There were twenty-eight band members present. They will hold their first band practice this school year after school Wednesday October 12 at 3:45 o'clock. Any new members are welcome to come and join at that time. Mr. Peters who has lead this band for several years is the director this year.

TINLEY PARK PTA NOTES

The PTA takes this opportunity to thank the many friends who so kindly donated books to our school library. We have a nice collection, and expect to have same in order and ready for circulation soon. We wish to advise that the rumor going around that some of the books that cannot be used, are being burned, is false. No material has been destroyed.

At our meeting on October 7th, our speaker will be Mrs. Holland Flager, State Program chairman, instead of Rev. Nesmith who is unable to be with us.

Erna Wallin, Pub. Ch.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Starting Thursday October 6th, the membership drive will be held by the school children, under the supervision of the room mothers. This will continue through until Friday October 14th. At that time the room or rooms having 100 percent will be given a weiner and marsh-mellow roast at one of the Forest Preserves. We hope to be able to take them there in hay racks. This, the PTA will do, in appreciation for the work done by the children during the drive.

Pinochle Tournament Succeeds

Many tickets for the WBA Pinochle Tournament were sold in advance of the starting night, last night, so it was assured ahead of time that the tournament would be a success.

Next Friday a list of this week's winning players and their scores will be printed in this paper.

Several names of donors of prizes were omitted from last week's edition. They are: Schultz's Royal Blue Store; Schmutte's Meat Market; A & P Store; Brueggeman's and Straus Jewelers.

There are still a few names not yet obtained but altogether there has been a grand list and should be a drawing attraction. Come on everybody, lets all join the fun at Saenger hall. There are lots of prizes given every night. All WBA members have tickets.

The third party of a series was given by the South Subdivision pinochle club recently. The ladies surprised Mrs. Walter Eichelberg in her home and presented her with a lovely birthday gift. A few games of pinochle were played during the evening. Mrs. M. E. Sandler had charge of all arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Keup and daughter returned to Andover, South Dakota, last Tuesday. Mr. Keup is a brother to Melvin Keup, owner of Phillip's "66" station on South Sub Division. The K. Keups have been visiting here for over two weeks and have seen enough of our country that they are thinking very seriously of moving back here.

John E. Swisher has begun building operations on his new home located near the Henry Kehres place. John W. Schilling who sold his farm near Mokena sometime ago, will locate in Tinley Park. He is building a new home in the north-west side of Tinley.

Richard Ryan underwent an appendicitis operation last week in St. Francis hospital, Blue Island. He is improving nicely.

Marvin Vogt and Irvin Siemsen accompanied by the former's father, Henry C. Vogt, returned Monday from Selma, Alabama, where the two boys mentioned and Howard Mager were injured in a serious auto accident two weeks ago. Marvin was injured the worst, but is improving quite nicely. The other boys are also on the road to recovery. Mr. Vogt's car was just about completely wrecked. The boys were very much impressed with the fine hospitality of the southern people. When the story of their accident appeared in the Selma papers many people not even knowing them, sent flowers as they felt sorry that the boys vacation trip had such a tragic end.

Miss Viola Wilke, manager of the Bell Telephone Co. office in Tinley Park, left the latter part of last week by bus on a trip to Los Angeles, California. Her sister, Miss Jessie Wilke returned recently from a trip to Warren, Minn.

The roller skating season has begun at the Saenger hall and good attendances are reported.

Wednesday afternoon nearly every business place in Tinley had a radio tuned in on the big world series ball game in Chicago and many interested listeners crowded the loud speakers to get the details and scores of the game.

The Royal Blue store commencing Monday of this week closes at 6:30 p. m. each evening.

Harold J. Wilkin of Tinley Park is among the 106 Illinois students enrolled in the Culver Military Academy in Culver, Indiana. He is an old cadet in the Culver Black Horse Troop.

Check Radical Government

The Republican party will be able to check the radical government program and bring about real recovery if it can get all of the voters registered and get those who generally do not vote to go to the polls on November 8th. Goodwin L. Doseland, Republican candidate for congress in the Third District, declared at a number of meetings on the South Side and in south suburban communities.

"There are 1,154,000 Cook county voters who are not registered," he said, "and 100,000 of them are in the Third District. If we can get them to register on October 10th in Chicago and October 11th in the suburban communities, and if we can get them out on November 8th, I think there is no doubt how the election will go. If everyone votes, I do not believe they can defeat us. Our job is to prevent the Democratic machine from winning by default."

Doseland reviewed events of the last six years to show that the expenditures of $40,000,000,000 has had a net result of increasing unemployment from 10,000,000 to 14,000,000, while 5,000,000 others are still working part time.

"Something is wrong," he asserted "It is not logical that a government and a congress pledged to a recovery program and with power to enact any legislation they wanted, should be unable to get some results."

"The Democratic platform of 1932 was one of the finest political documents ever written. The only trouble was that it was not followed. Instead of sticking to their platform, tried to reform America. Reform is all right; we needed it, and we still need a lot of it. But they tried reform before they had brought recovery."

"This is a rich country, and there would be no complaint about spending $40,000,000,000 if it had brought results—but it has not. And there is no assurance that another six years of spending would change the situation."

Real Estate Income Will Determine Assessment Values

Income from real estate properties will be considered as a factor in determining values for assessment purposes in the 1939 quadrennial. Assessor John S. Clark told members of the Chicago Real Estate Board at a luncheon meeting Wednesday. The meeting was held in the board's quarters at 32 West Randolph St.

"Consideration of ability to pay will achieve a greater uniformity in taxation," he said, "and this can be more accurately measured by taking income as a factor as well as reproduction costs and depreciation. In ordinary appraisal rules, concerned with replacement and depreciation, there is this missing element which is a very important measure."

Assessor Clark reviewed the achievements of previous quadrennial assessments since the 1928 reassessment showing how rules for measurement of buildings and computation of physical factors achieved greater uniformity. He expressed gratitude to members of the board who helped perfect these standards in the 1935 quadrennial and said that he would call on them again to assist him in the 1939 quadrennial.

"Having achieved a great measure of uniformity through these rules, the next forward step will be consideration of this element, not expressed in the physical character of buildings. Greater uniformity will be obtained through its consideration. If a building is unfortunately situated as to location, measurement of income will attain for it greater equality with another more fortunately located."

"The appropriation for the assessor allows about 30 cents for appraisal of each of the more than 1,200,000 parcels of real estate in Cook County. But since we have already established accurate rules for determining replacement costs and depreciation, we are in a position to consider this new factor under better conditions."

"Making the 1939 assessment will be a hard job but I'm going to start by having the same people, more actively engaged in the real estate business, work with me just as they did in 1935."

MARLEY

MISS FRANCIS GILLETTE

Mr. and Mrs. A. Lauterbach are the parents of a baby boy. They are former residents of Marley.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Sproat were dinner guests in the E. D. Gillette home Tuesday evening celebrating the birthday of Mrs. Sproat.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Kohl attended the funeral of Alois Herbst in Joliet Wednesday.

The September meeting of the Marley Women's Club was held in the home of Mrs. G. W. Bush on September 27. Mrs. Randall Storm presided in the absence of the president. The meeting was opened by the pledge to the flag followed by the secretary and treasurer's reports. Mrs. Virginia Sass gave a summary of the fall tri annual. Mrs. Carrie Bush, Garden Chairman, offered hints on Fall Planting.

A message was read from the County Program Chairman.

After the business session the following program was presented: "I Like America", by Mrs. Evelyn Moore; "America Becomes Nation No. 1" by Mrs. Iva Bell; "Buy Paths to Learning", by Eleanor Sabin; "School For The Brilliant" by Mrs. Florence Haas; "Character Study of Charley McCarthy", by Mrs. Virginia Sass;

Refreshments were served, there being thirteen members, one guest and two children present.

Eleanor and Homer Sabin and Iva Sproat will be in charge of the Sunday Evening Club this Sunday. Danny Sass will have the devotions. The subject will be centered around the condition of the Negro and some American Negro poets and their poetry will be discussed.

The following Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sproat will conduct the meeting after which a social hour will be held in the brotherhood room.

Church services will be conducted by Rev. Felch of Chicago who was here two months ago. The following services will again be in charge of Rev. Sydney B. Meade of Chicago.

How Magician Fools Audience

It is not the speed of the magician's hand that fools his audience. It is his ability to distract attention from what his hand really is doing, plus sleight of hand and mechanical apparatus.

Beginning of Factory System

Factories and the factory system were unknown before the Eighteenth century.

In The Churches Sunday

CHRIST LUTHERAN CHURCH
(A Changeless Christ for a Changing World.)

Adolf Lach, Pastor
Orland Park, Illinois
Sunday School 9:00 a. m.
English services 10:00 a. m.
German services 1st, 3rd and 5th Sundays of the month.

Bible Hour in school house every Thursday even. 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock. Members are expected, friends invited and strangers welcome.

ORLAND PARK M. E. CHURCH
(A Friendly Church)
Manly J. Mumford, Pastor

Church service 11:00 a. m.
Church School 10:00 a. m.
There will be no church services this Sunday as the pastor is attending the annual church conference. Sunday School as usual.

ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH
Father J. L. Rooney
Orland Park

Mass each Sunday morning at 7 a. m., and 9 a. m.

TINLEY PARK M. E. CHURCH
There will be no church services this Sunday, due to the annual conference, Sunday School as usual.

ZION LUTHERAN CHURCH
Tinley Park, Ill.

Rev. Alb. Buddenhagen, Pastor
Oct. 9—Harvest Home and Mission Festival. Rev. A. Lutz of Gary, Indiana will preach the sermon. German and English services every Sunday.

German service at 8:30.
Sunday school at 9:45
English service at 11:00
Confirmation instruction every Tuesday and Thursday at 4:00 p. m.

TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH
Mo. Synod. 159th St & Oak Park Av

Martin Frick, Pastor
Walter Schmidt, Principal
Sunday school at 9:30 a. m.
German services with the celebration of the Lord's Supper at 9:00, A. M. English services with Holy Communion at 10:30 A. M.
Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock the regular quarterly meeting of the voters will be held.
Mid-week Bible Hour will be held Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.
The Ladies Aid meets Thursday afternoon with Mrs. A. Habenicht. Mrs. H. Huhnstock and Mrs. M. Frick as the hostesses.

ST. GEORGE CATHOLIC CHURCH
Tinley Park, Ill.

Rev. Father Boyle, Pastor
Masses: 8:30 and 10:30 every Sunday.

IMMANUEL LUTHERAN CHURCH
Mokena, Illinois.

W. J. Geffert, Pastor.
Sunday School 9 a. m. every Sunday
Divine service 10 a. m. every Sunday
German service every first Sunday of the month.
English service every 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th Sunday of the month.

MOKENA METHODIST CHURCH
Charles Knight, Pastor
Church Service 9:30—10:30 a. m.
Topic of Sermon: Spiritual Worship.

Sunday School 10:30—11:30 a.m.
Sunday School Superintendent Miss Adeline Semmler.
Church Pianists Mrs. Werner and Mrs. Erdman
You are cordially invited to worship with us during these hours.

BAPTIST GOSPEL MISSION
Held in the School House of District 156A.

Lincoln Estates
Sunday school 2:30 p. m.
Gospel Message, 3:30 p. m.
Come and bring your friends.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY
147th and Karlov
SUNDAY

10:00 a. m. Sunday School
11:00 a. m. Church service. . .

CATHOLIC CHURCH
Lincoln Estates
Sundays, Holy Mass at 8.30 a. m.

ST. JOHN EVAN. CHURCH
Mokena, Illinois
Rev. Theo. Haeefe, Pastor

ST. MARY'S CATHOLIC CHURCH
Mokena, Illinois.

Rev. Father Roman, O. F. M.
Mass at 10:00 a. m. each Sunday of the month except the first Sunday when Mass will be held at 8:00 a. m.

ST. JUDE'S CHURCH

New Lenox

Rev. Father Roman, O.F.M.
Mass will be at 8:00 o'clock every Sunday morning at St. Jude's Catholic church, except the first Sunday of each month, when it is at 10 a.m.

GRACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH
Rev. E. M. Ringland, STB, Vicar
New Lenox, Illinois

Friday: Morning Prayer at 10:00.
Sunday: Choral Matins at 9:00.
Sermon by the Vicar.
Choral Eucharist at 9:00 (first Sunday of the month)
Church School: Saturday at 10:00.
Sunday (Primary Grades) 10:00.
"A church which is friendly to men and loyal to God."

FRANKFORT M. E. CHURCH
C. F. Schellhase, Pastor
Mrs. Paul Mark, Organist.
Miss Lois Dunn, Choir Director.
Urban Schellhase, Sunday school Superintendent.

There will be no Sunday school or church this Sunday due to the pastor attending the annual conference.

GREEN GARDEN M. E. CHURCH
C. F. Schellhase, Pastor.

Mrs. Norman Krapf, Organist.
Mrs. C. F. Schellhase, Choir Director.

Mr. Edwin Bettenhausen, Sunday School Superintendent.
Sunday school 9:45 a. m.
Divine Worship 10:45 a. m.

There will be no Sunday school or church this Sunday due to the pastor attending the annual conference.

ST. PETER'S EVANGELICAL
Rev. G. Gerhold, Pastor
Frankfort, Ill.

German service 8:30 a. m.
Sunday school 9:30 a. m.
English service 10:30 a. m.

Young People's Society meeting at 7:30 p. m. Topic: "The Church" under the leadership of the Teacher's Training Class.

The men of the church are making arrangements for a Men's Banquet in the church Tuesday evening Oct. 18.

The annual chicken supper of the Ladies Aid Society will be held on Thursday November 10.
Religious instruction Saturday at 9 and 10 a. m.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Unreality" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 2.

The Golden Text was, "Let not him that is deceived trust in vanity: for vanity shall be his recompense" (Job 15:31).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Behold, the Lord God will come with strong hand, and his arm shall rule for him: behold, his reward is with him, and his work before him. All nations before him are as nothing; and they are accounted to him less than nothing, and vanity" (Isaiah 40:10, 17).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "From beginning to end, whatever is mortal is composed of material human beliefs and of nothing else. That only is real which reflects God" (p. 478).

The Time of Your Life . . . Sunday, Oct. 9th, 1938

GEORGE BENNETT'S BIRTHDAY PARTY

— AT —
Oswald's
1 1/4 Miles West of Wolf Road on 159th Street
SPECIAL FLOOR SHOW AND PROGRAM
EATS — A REAL TREAT! EVERYBODY WELCOME!

Observe Girl Scout Week

Girl Scouts of America observe their annual "week" from October 30 to November 5 with special observances throughout the nation. These five members wave to the cameraman as they leave for an outing. Left to right: Alice Drought of Racine, Wis.; Graham Jackson of Rochester, N. Y.; Mary F. Owen of Tallahassee, Fla.; Margaret Heinecke of Springfield, Ill., and Mayme Thompson of Tahlequa, Fla.

Grand Opening of . . . Mokena Beauty Shop

Saturday, Oct. 8th

Grand Opening Prices

SHAMPOO and FINGER WAVE
35c

PERMANENT — from $3.00 up

Wanda Brandom, Operator

HENSEL'S DRUG STORE BLDG. PHONE MOKENA 51-W

NEW LENOX

MRS. LEONARD ANDERSON

The B-Square Club met Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Alfred Engels, Joliet. Airplane bunco was played prizes awarded to Mrs. Octavia Pugh, Mrs. Wm. Collatz, and Mrs. Harvey Frick. The traveling prize went to Mrs. Edw. Kerstein. Mrs. Ella Button was a guest of the club and Mrs. Henry Yahn was taken in as a member. Both received guest prizes. Refreshments were served at individual tables. Mrs. John Embling will entertain October 12 at her home.

Mrs. Leonard C. Anderson was hostess to members of the Ace High Pinochle club at her home on S. Cedar Rd. Monday night.

A community dance sponsored by the Maple Street Arbor of Gleaners will be held October 7 in the Colonial Ballroom.

Members of the choir of St. Jude's Catholic church entertained at a surprise handkerchief shower Friday night honoring Miss Bette Lou Osmus, whose family home was burned out recently. The affair was held at the home of Miss Bessie Latz, following choir practice. Games were played and a two course luncheon was served in a candle lit room at one long table centered with a garden bouquet of flowers. Miss Osmus received many lovely handkerchiefs.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Brown and family who moved Saturday to Chicago were entertained at a Farewell party in their home Friday evening. Approximately fifty guests enjoyed a social evening. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Conover, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Schmitt, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Shepley, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fosnaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bradshaw, Mr. and Mrs. Casper Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Max Erlich, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Osmus, and Bill Marshall.

Mrs. Will Hafka and Mrs. Arthur Osmus entertained at a household shower in the home of Mrs. Clara Schneider, honoring Mrs. Edward Berens Thursday afternoon.

Bunco was played at 7 tables, prizes going to the winners who in turn presented them to Mrs. Berens. A buffet luncheon was served at 5 o'clock. The honored guest received many beautiful gifts. Among those present were: Mrs. Harry Hafka, Misses Dorothy, and Irene Halfka, Mrs. Marlin Coates, Mrs. A. Wondrasac, Mrs. Fred Sperling, Mrs. Lawrence Eich, Mrs. Clara Schneider, Miss Doris Schneider, Mrs. Joseph Eich Jr., Mrs. Joseph Eich, Sr., Mrs. Morris Ardaugh, Mrs. Mae Last, Mrs. Ernest Oram, Jr., Mrs. Edw. Osmus, Mrs. Albert Latz, Mrs. Raymond Reiter, Mr. V. Bearden, Mrs. Harry Shepley, Mrs. Mary Bentley, Miss Caroline Bentley, Mrs. Harold Jacobs, Mrs. Louise Koch, Mrs. Rosa Koch, Mrs. Halfka, Mrs. Osmus, Miss Bette Lou Osmus and the honored guest.

Mrs. Harry Fitzer entertained members of the Afternoon Pinochle club in her home Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Arthur Papke acted as one of the three judges, at the Wilmington Garden club, held Saturday in Wilmington.

Mrs. Roland Cagwin entertained the Ladies Aid Society in her home Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Harold Griffin, Mrs. H. Webster and Miss Frieda Zumbstein assisted her.

Miss Lena Alexander entertained members of the Queen Esther's of the M. E. church at their regular monthly meeting at her home Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. David Lockwood have returned from a trip to Miami, Florida.

Mrs. Raymond Osmus and daughter Beverly Rae of Jackson, Mich. have been visiting relatives here for several days.

Members of the Band Parents Association met at their regular monthly meeting at 7:30 in the grade school auditorium.

Mrs. Minera Moore was hostess to members of the Ontra-Nous club in her home at a One o'clock luncheon Wednesday afternoon. Airplane bunco was played, prizes awarded to Mrs. Bessie Ellis, Mrs. Melda Reinhardt and Mrs. Dorothy Lathrop, a guest of the club. Mrs. Anne McIntyre was awarded the traveling prize. Mrs. Nan Rylander will entertain the club at her home in Chicago in two weeks.

The Pirates Pinochle club met Wednesday night at their first meeting of the season at the Fred Francis home. A covered dish supper was served at 6:30 o'clock. Pinochle was played the remainder of the evening. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Ray Brown, Mrs. Roy Osmus, G. Fred Krog, and Vernon Mangun. Mrs. Edw. Mangun was awarded a traveling prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Melyin Kohlhagen, and son Dick, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Goldy and son Wm. of Rockford, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nasil of Chicago were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sinclair.

The Ladies Aid of the M. E. church will hold their annual chicken supper and bazaar on Thursday, October 20 in the church basement.

The annual Harvest festival of the Grace Episcopal church will be held Sunday October 16 with services in the church at 11:00 o'clock. This is to be followed by pot luck dinner served in the Urch hall. All friends of the Congregation are asked to attend.

Mrs. Steven Sargent is recovering from an illness, in her home.

Harold, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Stockley is critically ill in his home.

Miss Genevieve Adams who has spent a few days with her sister Miss Charlotte Hagen in the H. A. Fink home left Sunday for Miami, Florida where she will remain until June.

MARLEY

MISS FRANCIS GILLETTE

Mr. and Mrs. Hike Johanson and family of Chicago spent the week end in the Charles Bostrom home.

Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Moore visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Art McGrath, Saturday.

Mrs. Laura Martz and daughter Anna, and Mrs. Edith Erickson of South Chicago visited last Thursday in the Charles Lahmann home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Marshall, and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cleveland visited in the Martin Bettenhausen home in Lemont, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Kohl were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. George Hauser in Blue Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Marshall and Frances Gillette were dinner guests last Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Moore. The dinner was in honor of the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, and Mr. and Mrs. Moore.

Mr. Allen Faar of Chicago visited Saturday at the Oscar Faar home.

Mrs. Grace Kerr of Joliet called on Mrs. C. F. Haley one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Dittmer, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Arson and Mrs. Emma Toepelt of South Milwaukee, Wisconsin, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. Dora Tilsy.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Coe spent Sunday in Kempton at the Harrison Haley home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Marshall, and Mrs. C. F. Haley were dinner guests Friday of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cleveland.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gray of Glenn Elyn, and Mr. Willis Gorham of Rockford, were Sunday visitors in the Richard Gorham home. Callers in the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Meade and Frances Gillette.

Mr. and Mrs. Crist Battenhouse and son James were Sunday visitors of the former's sister, Mrs. A. J. Cleveland.

The pupils of district 128, and their teacher, Miss Emiley Anderson are sponsoring a party to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Remke, Friday evening, Oct. 14th. Luncheon will be served and there will be entertainment for everyone. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Moore and Ramona were Sunday dinner guests in the Wm. Moore home in New Lenox.

Mrs. C. F. Haley and Miss Agnes spent the past week in De Kalb at the Will Storm home.

Mrs. J. O. Marshall and Mrs. A. J. Cleveland attended the Palos bunco club Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Carl Handorf.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spiecker and family were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Krohn in Peotone.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hull of Chicago Heights visited Sunday at the James Frazer home.

Bugle Calls

By Zeb Potter

Now that the European crisis has "eased up" for a few weeks we have a breathing spell. Many of us wonder what it is all about. We take stock of ourselves. What have we got in this country that the people in dictator-bossed nations over there haven't got? Liberty.

Liberty as a term takes in a lot of territory. Books have been written about how much or how little liberty there is left for us. In an old law book the other day, I ran across a pretty good notion of liberty.

In Atlanta, Georgia, an insurance company printed an ad in a newspaper urging people to buy life insurance. This ad contained a picture of a man. The man sued the insurance company for using his picture without his permission. The case was argued before the State Supreme Court of Georgia in 1905, 122 Ga. 190. These last figures are for reference.

Able and learned lawyers argued the case and we profit from obtaining a good idea of just what is liberty. I quote:

"An individual has a right to enjoy life in any way that may be both agreeable and pleasant to him, according to his temperament and nature, provided that in such enjoyment he does not invade the rights of his neighbors, or violate public law or policy."

"The liberty which he derives from natural law, and which is recognized by municipal law, embraces far more than freedom from physical restraint. The term 'liberty' is not to be so dwarfed, 'but is deemed to embrace the right of a man to be free in the enjoyment of the faculties with which he has been endowed by his creator, subject only to such restraints as are necessary for common welfare."

"Liberty in its broad sense, as understood in this country, means the right not only of freedom from servitude, imprisonment, or restraint but the right of one to use his faculties in all lawful ways, to live and work where he will, to earn his livelihood in any lawful calling, and to pursue any lawful trade or avocation."

If you are poor or if you are rich, come! If you are young and beautiful, or if you are old and not so good looking, come! If you drive mules, or a fancy motor car, come! If you live in a swell home, or in a shack, come! Fly, walk, hitch-hike, run, sail, but get there! "Where, Zeb?" To the Mokena Home-coming and Harvest Festival, October 21 and 22.

With just a touch of autumn in the air. Oak leaves coming down in all their russet glory. Healthy, happy children again in school. Isn't it a grand old world, that is our world, here in this country, far away from the sound of marching troops, and the harsh call of dictators for more land, that is the other fellow's land. Yes, folks, we got a lot to be thankful for.

Folks, just drop your old friend Zeb Potter a line, care of the News-Bulletin, Mokena. Mr. Semmler the publisher, space permitting, I am sure will print a few of the letters. Please write, just tell how you feel about things.

Tennis Played by Romans

The Romans had a game of tennis, which they called pia, but even before the Romans, Calen, an old Greek medical gentleman, had written of it to the effect that it was in his time a healthful exercise, and quite nice. Herodotus thinks it was first played by Lybians, in the reign of King Atyx, many years before Christ was born. It has been called "the king of games."

HOMER

Mrs. Fred Kopelman

The Modern Woodmen held their regular business meeting in their hall Wednesday. Cards were enjoyed at the close of the meeting as were also refreshments. The committee in charge for the October meeting will be Barney Welter and Lawrence Doctor.

Mr. Henry Burch left last week to visit at the home of his son, Ralph, and family at Sheldon, Wis.

Approximately 150 attended the annual bazaar and chicken pie supper in the church dining room Thursday evening, which was sponsored by the Ladies' Missionary Society, of which Mrs. Anderson is president. The stage, where the fancy work was displayed, was very prettily decorated by the committee in charge, namely Mrs. Grace Piggett and Mrs. Bessie Ross.

Mrs. Hal Reed is on the sick list. Several from this church attended the services at the Congregational church services in Lockport, Sunday afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hewit were business visitors in Indiana, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Simandi and daughters Dorothy and Evelyn, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Viscosil, all of Chicago, were entertained at dinner in the Walter Konow home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Houser and family of Peoria are now residing in the bungalow on the Bird farm.

Friday morning Mrs. Ross White suffered severe cuts on her hand when a pitcher which she was carrying broke. The cuts were so deep that the doctor found it necessary to take several stitches.

Joseph Brankay and La Verne Shubert are taking a night school course at the Joliet township high school.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Rowley and daughter Betty, Mrs. Marie Ott and children, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rowley in Chicago Heights. Mrs. Rowley and the new baby which has been given the name Marjorie Sue, have returned home from the hospital.

Miss Florence Konow was a guest over the week end at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Walter Konow.

Mrs. Arthur Hewit entertained her pinochle club from Argo at her home Wednesday evening. Preceding the games Mrs. Hewit served a chicken dinner to the guests.

The Maple Street Arbor of Gleaners will hold a dance at the Colonial ballroom in New Lenox, Friday night October 7th.

Mrs. George White of Lockport spent the week end in the home of Mrs. William Ross.

Mrs. Harlow Jungles has been on the sick list the past week.

The pupils of the Burkhardt school in DuPage township and their teacher Miss Evelyn Kopelman will sponsor a card and dancing party in the school room, Friday night, October 21st. Bunco, euchre, bridge, and pinochle will be played. Picnic lunch will be served following the games. The public is invited to attend.

The community party which was held in the town hall Friday evening, was well attended and a good time had by all. Trophies in bunco were awarded to B. F. Ingersol, Geo. and Bobby Boyce, Mrs. Walter Konow, Viola Konow, and Marilyn Hartman; in euchre to Mr. Warnsholdt, Maurice Paddock, and Walter Konow, Glenn Paddock, Evelyn Kopelman, and Mrs. Edward Beaver; in pinochle to Mrs. Edd Daley, Mrs. Walter Konow, and Mrs. Frank Hartman Sr., Fred Kopelman, and Peter Konick was the lucky one to draw the ten pounds of sugar. The committee appointed to take charge of the November party is: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hewit, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Bump, and Mr. and Mrs. Gebert.

A group of young people representing the Pilgrim Fellowship society of the Homer church and the Sunday school met in the Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hewit home Saturday evening and surprised their son Gerald in the form of a farewell party. Gerald is planning to leave for Washington, Thursday. A signet ring was presented to him from the group. Games, dancing and refreshments were enjoyed.

Of sudden shock to Homer people was the untimely death of A. F. Herbst. Mr. Herbst was the husband of the former Miss Marie Welter, who was many years a resident in Homer. Her husband was killed when he and a fellow lineman were checking and repairing the instruments used to turn street lights on in Joliet. In some unaccountable fashion Mr. Herbst came in contact with the high voltage wire and fell from the pole.

He is survived by his wife Marie, a son, Jerry, two years old; his parents, six brothers and one sister. A little son preceded him in death.

The remains were removed to the Dames funeral home and services were held from there to St. John's Catholic church Wednesday morning. Burial in St. John's cemetery.

The Homer Dramatic club held the October business meeting at the church parlors Tuesday night. The committee in charge was Mrs. Robt. Burch, Mrs. Fred Holt and Miss June Milton.

The Bible class of the Homer Sunday School are planning a "Stunt" program to be held in the near future. A short play and several musical numbers will be presented. Watch for the date.

THE BAD NEWS

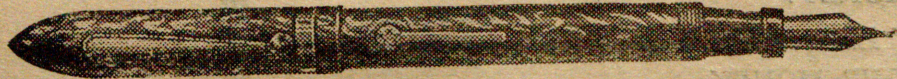

FREE! Free! FREE!

Everybody Wants One of These

FOUNTAIN PENS

WITH A WRITTEN LIFETIME GUARANTEE
BEAUTIFUL — USEFUL — DURABLE

Or A Handy
HAMMER TOOL KIT

HIGHLY VARNISHED CHERRY COLORED, HOLLOW
WOOD HANDLE FITTED WITH KNURLED STEEL CHUCK.
NICKED CLAW HAMMER WITH FOUR TOOLS.

Here's How You Get Yours

Pay As Many Years As You Like On Your Own Subscription

—Buy a Subscription For a Friend or Relative. You get a

CHOICE of THE FOUNTAIN PEN or the Handy HAMMER

TOOL KIT for Each Year Paid, at the Regular Price of $1.50,

Whether It Be a Renewal of Old Subscription—On Account,
In Advance or a New Subscription.

More Than Double Value For Your Money

Think of it! Our Newsy, Worthwhile Paper and YOUR CHOICE of this remarkable FOUNTAIN PEN or the Handy
HAMMER TOOL KIT—The finest offer we have ever made.

News-Bulletin

Mokena Ill.

Gold Diggers
Of 1938
OUR WANT ADS

ORLAND PARK

WOMAN'S CLUB NEWS

The finance committee of the Orland Park Woman's club wishes to express their appreciation to all who attended their Brides' Pageant and to every one who in any way helped to make it a success. The committee is especially grateful to those who gave their time and efforts to the reception.

The Orland Park M. E. Church adult Bible class will meet on the night of October 12th in the M. E. church parlors in their regular monthly meeting.

The Orland Park Volunteer Fire Department met Monday night in regular monthly session.

Mrs. Frances Miller who has been operating the Purple Candle restaurant who recently quit this business is moving to Blue Island next week. A Chicago party, it is understood, will take over the restaurant.

The Forest Preserve District has posted new signs in the forest preserve in the McGinnis slough section designating this as a wild bird refuge and all hunting, trapping and trespassing is forbidden.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

The money made by the Girl Scouts at their candy sale was sufficient not only to buy their charter but also to get their tenderfoot pins and a few necessities.

Sunday evening, October 23rd at 7:30 p. m., the Girl Scouts will hold their investiture ceremony at the home of their captain, Mrs. David Krueger, Kane's Lane, Orland. The executive committee, chairman, Mrs. Chas. Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. George Gee Jr., Mr. David Krueger, and Mrs. W. R. Schussler Jr., invite the parents and any one interested to attend.

Mrs. Krueger has enrolled in a Scout Leader's training course, held weekly for eight weeks at the Ridge Park Field House.

The annual bazaar of the Orland M. E. Church was held Thursday afternoon and evening in the church parlors and was well attended.

Mrs. Ray Brennan has returned home and is recuperating nicely from her recent operation.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

The Biology class has completed the first unit. Wednesday they begin studying the problem "How Do Living Things Use Food?"

A new student entered the junior year this week. He is Bert Kullerstrand from Morgan Park high school. We were sorry to lose Roger Babbitt, whose parents have moved to Chicago, where Roger will attend Tilden Technical high school.

Some of the girls have begun making poncho blouses in the sewing class.

General science class went on a field trip Monday. The object of the trip was to learn to recognize and know all trees and shrubs of the surrounding vicinity. The following kinds were observed: Burr, oak, white oak, red oak, American sugar maple, hickory and wild crab apple.

The science class has completed the first unit in astronomy. The class was out one evening last week observing stars and constellations. Due to the fact that visibility was poor, only a few constellations could be seen. We plan on "star gazing" again the next clear evening we can arrange to come out and intend to view the various constellations in the northern skies, double stars, variable stars, milky way and the planets Jupiter, Saturn, which shine with such great brilliancy.

The next unit we are to study will be one in geology: "How Did the Earth Come To Be As It Is Today?"

The architectural and mechanical drawing classes are working hard to master the elements of their rather difficult subjects.

SPORTS

Both the football field and the soccer field are now completely laid out, and we are anxiously awaiting the first football game with a real high school team. Mr. Linden, and Donald Brennan, the team manager, are trying to get games with nearby schools which may have or can develop a team to compete with us. It is possible that we may play Blue Island high school at an early date. The team is practicing regularly and is developing real football ability. The team is coached by Mr. Linden, assisted by Lester Kinney, a former Orland student. The following students are trying out for the squad: Henry Rufacz, quarter back; Wm. Davidson, half back; Arthur Uthe, end; Wm. McAleer, half back; Melvin Ballou, tackle; Donald Brennan, full back; Eugene Uthe, guard; Bert Kullerstrand, center; Charles Maddox, tackle; Carl Smith, end; Nick Heim, guard; Carl Sawyer, tackle; Arthur Beagley, Robert Arnold, Martin Yunker, Paul Groskopf, guard; Paul Doyle, Elwin Cox, Lee Roy Yates, Alfred Kimmel, end; Philip Sippel, tackle; Orville Holz, Roy Carlson, half back; Walter Bonham, guard.

Members of the congregation of the Orland Park M. E. Church surprised Rev. and Mrs. Manly Mumford at a farewell party Monday night held in the parlors of the church. The honored couple were presented with a purse. Mrs. Mumford was also given a beautiful rug, while Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Beagley presented Rev. and Mrs. Mumford with a plant.

Rev. Mr. Mumford is retiring from the ministry and will move to Mokena in the very near future where he has established a very cozy little home. The best wishes of the congregation go with Rev. and Mrs. Mumford in their new home. They made many friends during their brief stay in Orland Park.

Due to the annual conference now in session in Chicago, there will be no church services at the Orland Park M. E. Church this coming Sunday.

LAND TRANSACTIONS

Twp. 36, Pt. N $\frac{1}{4}$, S $\frac{1}{4}$ of NW $\frac{1}{4}$ 29, 36, 12, Fredk. H. Bartlett Tr. to John D. Salmon, R. S. 50c.

Twp. 36, SW $\frac{1}{4}$ SE $\frac{1}{4}$ S $\frac{1}{4}$ SW $\frac{1}{4}$ 11, 36, 12, Magnus A. Atrand to Bert F. Coghill, R. S. \$28.

FRANKFORT

Mrs. A. C. Heiland of 814 Taylor Street, Joliet, entertained in her home September 27 at a "Little House" shower in honor of Miss Ruth Nieland who will become the bride of Burnett Schramm of Manhattan October 23rd.

Airplane bunco was played with prizes awarded to Mrs. Albert Naal and Miss Nieland who was also recipient of many lovely gifts. A two-course luncheon was served at quarter tables which were centered with small houses. The hostess was assisted by her daughter Janella and her niece Miss Audry Osmus. The bride to be received a guest prize.

Another shower was given Sunday honoring Miss Nieland by Miss Bernice Buehler in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Schroeder Jr. The home was decorated in white and blue. Aeroplanes were played by the fifteen guests with prizes awarded to Miss Margaret Mueller and Mrs. Bertha Nieland. A two course luncheon was served. The honored guest received many beautiful gifts.

St. Paul's Community Church in Homewood, Ill., was the scene of a beautiful wedding on September 30, at eight o'clock when Miss Janet Baumgartner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Baumgartner, former residents of Frankfort, became the bride of Mr. Robert R. Bruhm, son of Mrs. G. Bruhm of Homewood. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers, palms, ferns and candles.

The bride was attired in white chiffon velvet with a veil and carrying white chrysanthemums. Her sister, Carrol Baumgartner, served as maid of honor. She wore a gown of shaded bronze chiffon velvet and her flowers were bronze chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid, Miss Janet Bruhm, sister of the groom, was dressed in the same manner and color. The groom's attendants were: Mr. Dean Bailey and Mr. Don Anderson.

Rev. Sides was the pastor who performed the ceremony and Gertrude Moeker and Arthur Lambrecht were soloists.

A reception was held in the home of the bride's parents immediately after the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruhm left after the reception for their new home in Woodbury, New Jersey where the groom is employed as a chemist.

The old home town folks, of Janes, extend their heartiest congratulations to the couple.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wieland was baptized last Sunday by Rev. G. S. Gerhold. Name given was Kenneth George. The sponsors were Mrs. John Harnack and George Wieland.

Mrs. Geo. Bobzin and sister are enjoying a vacation in Wisconsin with relatives.

A large number attended the get-together of the Frankfort Public School Alumni held last Sunday in the Arthur Geuther's woods. The weather was ideal and all had a good time playing either football, softball, volleyball, darts, croquet or horse shoe. As the sun was setting the majority enjoyed a basket lunch after which they played again until darkness forced them to go home much to their regret. The officers who were responsible for the outing received words of praise from the members present.

Jeanette Heusner returned from Silver Cross hospital last Sunday following an operation for appendicitis operation.

Kenneth, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Belz of Dolton had his tonsils removed by Dr. Buckley last Sunday.

Mrs. Emily Holl, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Holl and children Marlene and Nancy Lee were guests of Mrs. Chas. Scheer at a five o'clock dinner in her home last Sunday.

Mrs. Stanley Johnson entertained the Southend Pals Club of Lockport at a pinocle party last Friday evening in the home of Mrs. Chas. Scheer. The Amite Sewing Club will meet with Mrs. Fred Kohlhaugen October 11.

Mrs. Josie Thulin of Chicago visited with Mrs. Augusta Weber last Sunday.

READ THE AD$
Along With the News

ALERT TO PROTECT YOU

MOKENA

Mrs. Florence Steele entertained the members of the Young Ladies Club at a theatre party in the Mode Theatre in Joliet Tuesday evening.

Following the play they returned to her home in Mokena where refreshments were served.

The Misses Lorraine and Gloria Smith, Don Tietz, Bob Godfrey and Warren Starr all of Chicago and students of Parked High school, were guests of Miss Dorothy Hall, Ada Semmler and of the Sizer family Tuesday afternoon. The Misses Smiths are cousins of Mr. Frank Sizer.

Oh My! I am so busy! Well what is it all about? Why getting ready for that big bazaar Wednesday October 26 in St. John's church in Mokena. Chicken supper and a program.

Mr. and Mrs. Feltz of Chicago were guests in the August Werner home Sunday.

A few relatives and friends gathered in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. F. Wannamacher Saturday evening and surprised them in honor of their fifth wedding anniversary.

Audrey, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Neithammer who has been a student in the Conservatory of Music in Joliet in the Ballet class is preparing to take part in a recital in the Conservatory the latter part of October.

Mrs. Earl Donaldson had the unpleasant experience of having her pocket picked Saturday evening in Kresgie's Store in Joliet. Her purse was opened by being pushed against and her purse containing several dollars was taken.

MOKENA SCHOOL NOTES

Primary Room

The children greatly enjoyed working out our Indian activity. Everyone co-operated by bringing anything Indian from their home.

For the next few weeks we will be making Halloween decorations for the room.

Intermediate Room

The pupils of this room are to enertain at the first assembly program to be held October 20 and they extend a hearty invitation to all mothers and friends.

The Intermediate room is attractively decorated for the month with owls, witches and leaves.

The fifth grade is busy at work on an Indian Unit in geography and there are some splendid note books. Some of the children have made dug outs, canoes, stone hatchets, etc., which are on display in the room.

Betty Schoen, has returned from a visit to her mother in South Dakota. Junior High News

The seventh grade are making booklets on "Early Colonial Life" and the "Thirteen Colonies." The eighth grade have some fine essays on "Pioneer Days" which they will make into booklets.

High School News

The Freshman class has finished the book "Treasure Island" and have made maps to show where the different parts of the story took place.

The Sophomores have been having a few field trips along with the study of leaves in Botany. The trips were supervised by their teacher Mr. Dunn, and they proved very educational.

Administrative Comment

Attendance during the first month of school was quite good. The percentages of attendance by rooms were as follows: Primary 99 percent; Intermediate 97.5 percent; Junior High 98.8 percent; High School 98.9 percent.

There were eight cases of tardiness and in order to decrease this number we should like to call the attention to parents to the following time schedule:

School takes up at 9:00 a. m.; 1st grade dismissed at 10:50 a. m.; 2nd grade dismissed at 11:20 a. m.; Noon dismissal at 11:45 a. m.; School takes up at 12:45 p. m.; 1st and 2nd grades dismissed at 2:50 p. m.; School dismissed at 3:30 p. m. The enrollment by grades is as follows: 1st-17; 2nd-21; 3rd-19; 4th-14; 5th-17; 6th-16; 7th-23; 8th-19; 9th-21; 10th-12; Total-179.

PALOS PARK

Allan McClain recently returned from a four months visit on the north side of Chicago. He reports a very nice time.

Photographers from various newspapers met at the home of Mrs. Joel Louis Collins in Palos Dells last Wednesday afternoon and took pictures for the Palos Woman's Club, who are planning a luncheon and sponsoring a "Palos Pioneers on Review Day", which will be given at the log cabin near the ski jump on October 13.

Luncheon was served by Mrs. Collins after the pictures were taken. Those present were: Mrs. Ada Schmidt, Mrs. Irving Pronger, Mrs. Raymond Schofield, Mrs. D. E. Boatman, Miss Ruby Stockdale, Mrs. Arthur Lord, Mrs. Paul McCaskey and Mrs. L. H. Lanyen.

The Palos Junior girls club are planning a hike to Orland next Friday evening. The members are asked to meet at the vacant store on 123rd street at 7 or 7:30 p. m.

Ruth Vail will entertain the Palos Juniors in her home Friday evening October 21. Shirley Haack will celebrate a birthday that evening.

Dave McIntosh Field Day will be held at Oak Hills golf club 131st street and 80th Ave., October 23. Everyone is invited to come and play a round of golf. A golf match will be held in the afternoon. Any one not wishing to play or take part in the golf match may spend the afternoon playing cards which will be played in the locker room and in the restaurant. There will be prizes for cards as well as golf. Dinner will be served to anyone having a ticket for the Dave McIntosh Field Day.

Miss Ruby Stockdale was a dinner guest in the James Creer home in Orland Park last Sunday.

Mrs. Leroy Stockdale and sister, Mrs. Ruth Walker spent last week with relatives in Decatur.

Miss Louise Gerber spent a few days with relatives and friends in LaFayette, Indiana last week.

LAND TRANSACTIONS

Winslow Mahaffays Sub. S $\frac{1}{4}$ S3.5 W $\frac{1}{2}$ L9 NW $\frac{1}{4}$ 26, 37-12, S. Sidney Traub to Martin A. Olsen, R.S.\$1.50. Bartlett's Homestead Develop. L10 B29 NE $\frac{1}{4}$ 25, 37, 12, Robt. Bartlett Trs. to Jerome F. Howard, R. S. \$6. Bartlett Homestead Develop. No. 4, L2 B 37 NE $\frac{1}{4}$ 25, 37, 12, Robt. Bartlett Trs. to Tollie Graves, R. S. \$6.50.

LINCOLN ESTATES

Mrs. Pearl Whitney

The children of the singing class of the Ann Rutledge school were glad to welcome back their music teacher, Albert Hindla.

Mrs. Geo. MacKenzie spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. G. C. Weddle.

Mrs. John O'Malley and Mrs. B. Haskin visited with the latter's sister Mrs. P. Whitney last Friday.

Miss Vivian E. Gill celebrated her 19th birthday September 29th.

Words come from Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Fisher that they have arrived at Ashland, Virginia after a pleasant trip.

Roger Becker spent Friday in Chicago.

Guests in the Gill home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Metz and Mr. and Mrs. Kilmartin and the Molaney family.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Weddle made a business trip to Joliet Tuesday.

Mrs. Mary Menke is visiting her brother, Chas. Brand at North Judson, Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Murry expect to go Leijters Ford, Mich., to visit the former's brother who is ill.

Watch for announcement of a party to be given in the Ann Rutledge school.

BUYER MEETS
SELLER IN OUR AD
COLUMNS....

First Showing!

FINE SELECTION OF 1939

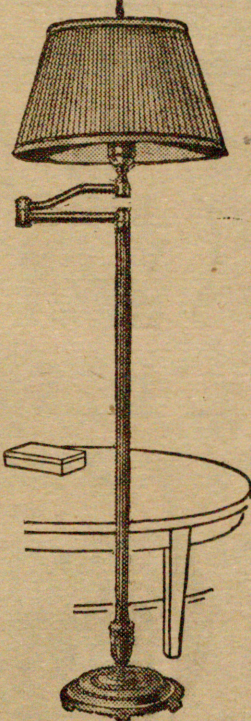

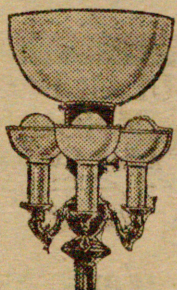

NEW *Better Light
Better Sight* LAMPS

Look How Much More You Get
For Your Money!

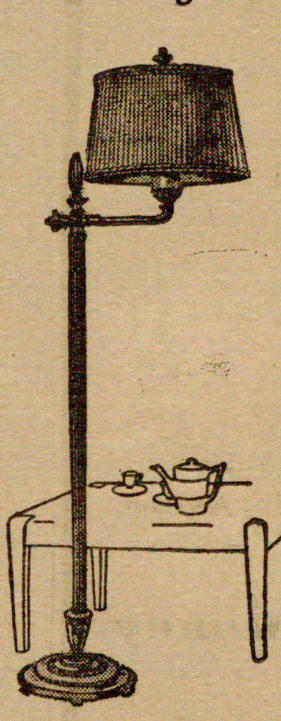

● Not only are these new 1939 lamps attractive in their own right—they give you two very important PLUS advantages as well. Scientifically constructed to prevent sharp contrasts of shadow and glare, they help protect precious eyesight against strain. At the same time, the soft, evenly diffused light throws a cheerful glow over the entire room—brings out the beauty of home furnishings. Come in and see these lamps for yourself. You'll agree here's value—MORE FOR YOUR MONEY!

Why "Better Light" Lamps Give You
MORE FOR YOUR MONEY

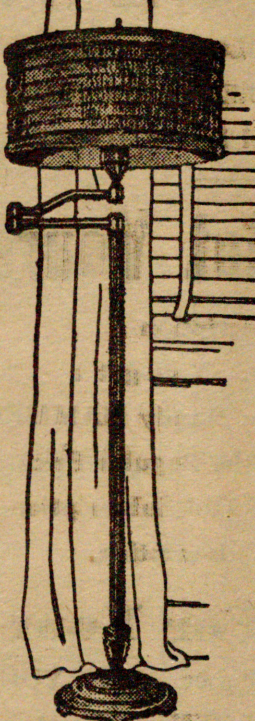

1. Diffusing bowl sifts out harmful glare.
2. On models with candles, similar bowls shield each bulb.
3. Special inner lining with shade reflects more light for better sight.

"Extend-Arm" Lamp
Convenient swing adjustment for any purpose.

The Inverted Bridge
Beautifully styled in the new 1939 manner.

Another "Extend-Arm" with distinctive shade of novelty weave homespun.

ANY LAMP
ILLUSTRATED HERE
$13.95

SMALL DOWN PAYMENT
—LIBERAL TERMS
Small carrying charge for deferred payments.

ALL PURPOSE LAMP

Particularly adaptable where both good lighting and decorative furnishing are desired.

PHONE FOR HOME LAMP DEMONSTRATION!

OTHER LAMP DEALERS ARE ALSO
FEATURING NEW 1939
BETTER LIGHT—BETTER SIGHT LAMPS

PUBLIC SERVICE STORE

302 CASS STREET, JOLIET, ILL.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY OF NORTHERN ILLINOIS

Notice of Publication

State of Illinois, County of Will, ss.
In the Circuit Court.

Joseph Berkes, plaintiff, vs. Eugenia Berkes, defendant.

Civil Action in Equity, No. 44755.

Affidavit showing that the defendant, Eugenia Berkes, upon due inquiry cannot be found; that upon diligent inquiry, her present place of residence cannot be ascertained so that process cannot be served upon her; that the last known place of residence and address for receiving mail of the said Defendant was as follows: viz:

Eugenia Berkes,
521 Lime Street,
Joliet, Illinois,

having been filed in the office of the Clerk of this court, notice is therefore, hereby given to said defendant that the plaintiff in the above entitled cause filed his complaint in said cause on the 27th day of September, 1938, and that said action is now pending and undetermined in said court, and that you, the said defendant, must file your answer or otherwise make your appearance in said action on or before the first Monday in the month of November, 1938, and in the event you fail to do so default may be entered against you.

George J. Buttell, Jr.,
Clerk of said Court

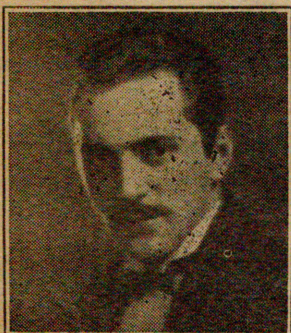

Pence B. Orr,
Plaintiff's Attorney.
Joliet, Illinois, September 27th,
A. D. 1938.

Sept. 30, Oct. 7-14.

DR. B. J. ROTH
DENTIST

Folkers Building, Frankfort.
Hours: Wed. and Sat. 9 to 12 only.
For information, call Frankfort 5.
Resident Phone: Orland 128-R-1

SCHMADEKE FUNERAL HOME

Orville J. Schmadeke
Modernly equipped to render service at moderate cost. Invalid coach service. Tel. Orland Park 7-R.

ADS For SALE IN OUR NEXT ISSUE

The Menace of Autocracy

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

The world, as this is written, gazes shocked and amazed at new and dramatic evidences of the dangers inherent in autocratic rule.

That humanity should be shocked is natural. But that it should be surprised is less understandable.

For more than a century and a half it has been, in the great American epic, that where the people rule—where the press and speech and religion and opportunity are free—men have attained high standards of living and liberty and happiness.

For many centuries it has known that where the reins of power are grasped in the hands of one—or a few—the individual is oppressed, religion suffers, freedom languishes, and the people are sacrificed on gross altars of hatred and personal ambition.

These are natural outgrowths of the soils in which the two contrasting ideas of government—Democracy and Autocracy—are nourished.

The first, Democracy, is founded on Faith; the second, modern Autocracy, grew out of Despair.

The first looks with confidence to the Future; the second, with apprehension at the Past.

The first seeks to govern through reason and progress; the second, through blind acceptance and regression.

The first bases its strength on the freedom of the people; the second, on the thickness of the chains that shackle them.

There are other differences. One, modern Autocracy, glorifies that cold abstraction, the State; the other, Democracy, that warm reality, the family. One glorifies the barracks, the other the home; one, terrorism, the other, tolerance; one, the weapons and conquests of war, the other the tools and achievements of peace. One breeds hunger and desperation, the other, comfort and confidence.

These are reasons why America established the principle of Government by the People. They are reasons why the American people should and must cling jealously to that principle of self-rule. Every surrender, however slight, of the power of the people serves only to weaken our sound heritage of freedom, and to bring closer the black shadow which lowers over so much of Europe.

Trailer Campaign
Covers 40,000 Miles

Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for United States Senator, entering the white trailer that has carried him 40,000 miles in his summer campaign tour and in which he is now making a final tour of downstate Illinois before the election November 8th.

The shiny white house-trailer, now famous in Illinois politics as the personal campaign headquarters of Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for United States Senator, in his summer speaking tour, passed its 40,000th mile this week.

Into hundreds of small towns where no major political candidate ever has appeared, the red-lettered sound truck has carried Lyons and his associates, Simon E. Lantz and Stephen A. Day, candidates for congressmen-at-large, Wm. R. McCauley candidate for state treasurer, Wiley B. Garvin, candidate for superintendent of public instruction, and Geo. E. Lambur, Jr., candidate for clerk of the Illinois Supreme Court.

It has carried Lyons and his fellow candidates to county fairs, homecomings, church picnics and meetings of all kinds during the summer as they sped to and fro across Illinois from Elizabethtown on the Wabash River and Metropolis on the Ohio, to East St. Louis and Rock Island on the Mississippi, from Cairo to the Wisconsin line. No town has been too small for the Republican party to stop to shake hands or make a few speeches.

Lyons has addressed WPA workers from the trailer as it stood on the roadside near a project. He has spoken on street corners in Chicago and in baseball fields in Decatur. Theaters in small towns, clubs and labor temples in larger towns and public parks have been used by this "New Voice of the Plain People" as he brings his message right to the man on the street, in the fields, behind the counters of small stores, in professional offices, to the housewives, people on relief and people on the WPA.

Fife Preparation
For Youth

For a half century The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, founded by D. L. Moody in 1886, has provided instruction and training without cost for tuition to earnest minded young men and women who desire either to be better informed workers in home churches, or to devote their lives to full time Christian service in some specialized field. Ministers, evangelists, missionaries on home and foreign fields, Christian education directors, gospel song directors and churches and Sunday schools, and many other types of workers, have received their training at this school. More than 2,000 students were enrolled in the Day and Evening schools during the past year. Moody-trained missionaries numbering above 1,400 are now laboring under different church boards in some seventy countries.

The Bible ranks first in all Institute courses, and around it are gathered such subjects as Sunday School Administration, Gospel Music, Public Speaking, Home Economics, Manual Training, and also Homiletics, Apologetics, Greek, Hebrew, and medical subjects for missionary work.

There are three terms a year—Fall, Winter and Summer. An illustrated catalogue will be mailed on request. Address 153 Institute Place, Chicago, Illinois.

MOKENA

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Rinke and family moved last week into their new home.

The Robert Gilmore family have moved into the house vacated by the Rinkes. The Robt. Geuther family have moved into the house vacated by the Rinkes.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Rinke have rented the house belonging to Ed. Schmidt being vacated by the Frank Hirsch Jr. family.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Barkhardt have purchased a lot belonging to George Rinke, Niethammer Ave. and Carpenter street. They are starting to build a new house there.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Sorensen have purchased the house from Wm. Lynk now occupied by the Burkhardt family.

Mrs. Willard Martie underwent a major operation in Silver Cross hospital Tuesday morning.

Mr. Adam Barenz is ill and confined to his bed.

A group of Weekly Newspaper Editors of Will County gathered in the Wm. Semmler home Monday evening for a business and social meeting.

For A Tasty Snack try our Oyster Stew
AND HAMBURGERS
Friday & Saturday
YOU WILL LIKE THEM
Home made Chili next Saturday

Morry's Tavern
MOKENA, ILLINOIS
WE HANDLE THE FAMOUS PABST BEER

Anniversary
Wrestling Show
In Joliet Oct. 13th

In the month of October, 1937, Walter Shaughnessy introduced to the sports lovers of Joliet the new deal in professional wrestling. Oct. 13th marks the date on which he will celebrate the anniversary of Joliet's most popular sports entertainment. Many changes have been made in the course of that time. New lighting equipment has been installed, the ring has been raised so that a good view can be had by all, and now 500 new bleacher seats have been added to the arena.

Thursday night's show will be headed by that popular football star Jim McMillen. Mac has always been a favorite in the Chamber of Commerce Arena. McMillen will be matched with the new Spanish sensation that has just invaded the middle west, Ignacio Martinez. Martinez is a bigger man than McMillen standing well over six feet tall and weighing over 230 pounds. He has the distinction of being one of the few men that has ever earned a draw from Jim Londos and Bronko Nagurski. With Londos he went one hour to a draw decision and with the Bronko he stayed 90 min. Experts predict that this handsome Spanish boy is really going places, in the wrestling world. McMillen will have his hands full with this new boy, even though he is quite a fellow himself. It is a well known fact that if it weren't for Jims uncontrollable temper, he would be world's champion today. He had Everett Marshall practically whipped when Marshall kicked him and with a burst of fury Jim threw him bodily out of the ring and was disqualified.

O'Mahoney was always very busy whenever Mac's name was mentioned while the Irishman was Champion.

Other men that have been signed but not matched are Jack Conley, Hans Schnabel, Bert Rubi and Jimmy Hefner.

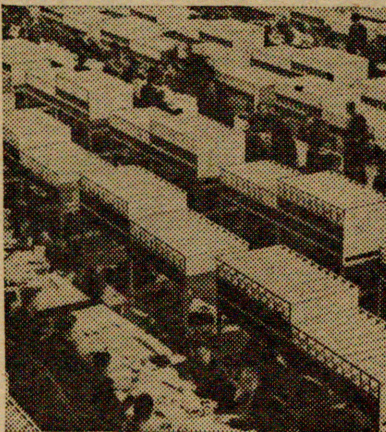

The first bout Thursday night will go on promptly at 8:30 o'clock and tickets will be on sale at John McCarthy's clothing store and at the Hollywood Luncheonette.

AMERICA
VOTES

● In every state but Maine, November 8 is election day; your chance to say "Yes" or "No" to the government.

Throughout the country, lines like the above form each election day as America exercises its franchise. Few citizens appreciate this right; too many complain about government and then do nothing about it. The above picture was taken at a New York polling place, where election machinery must be geared to accommodate a gigantic vote.

To tabulate New York's 2,000,000 votes, a special corps of canvassers require 15 days. But this is only for the official count. By midnight on election day, thanks to mechanical voting devices, New York can tell who is winning. Similarly, in national elections, trends can be determined a few hours after the polls close. Newspapers and press associations work all night at a frenzied pace, and by morning their readers know the outcome. A hundred years ago, national election results were not known for weeks.

Despite elaborate mechanism in larger cities, the bulk of America's votes are cast in small towns. Some voting precincts are so small that the polls close within a few hours after opening. Others complete their ballot in a few minutes, taking delight in being the first precinct to report.

Just What Does
It All Mean to Me?

That is the question that naturally comes to your mind when you think of or talk to your neighbors about the rather bewildering activities of the federal government in Washington.

Fragmentary news reports of congressional action or administration policies often are confusing, but if you will read William Bruckart's interpretative WASHINGTON DIGEST, which is published each week in this paper, you will know more about what all the moves on the capital checkerboard mean to you.

Through long service as a Washington correspondent, Mr. Bruckart is particularly well qualified for this particular job. He gives you an illuminating interpretation of what Congress is doing or is expected to do, and what is happening or is expected to happen in other departments of the government.

READ the Bruckart letter every week for an intelligent understanding of what is going on at the national capital.

Registration Data
For 1938 Election
In Cook County

Compiled from Official Sources by the Nonpartisan Citizens' Committee on Registration

It is estimated that nearly half a million citizens, who are eligible to register and vote in Cook County, have failed to qualify by registering. No one can vote in Chicago or Cook County November 8, 1938, unless he is registered in Chicago by October 10, or in the County by Oct. 11.

Persons may register as follows: Chicago and territory under election Commissioners jurisdiction.

Residents of Chicago, Chicago Heights, Berwyn, Cicero, Summit, Evergreen Park, Stickney, Morton Grove, Elmwood Park and Niles Center, all under the jurisdiction of the Board of Election Commissioners may register during any business day at Room 308, City Hall, Chicago, the office of the Election Commissioners, up to and including Saturday, October 8 or on Monday, October 10, 1938, at the voting places in the precincts in which they reside.

The voting places in the 3,850 election precincts over which the Board of Election Commissioners has jurisdiction will be open Monday, October 10, from 8 a. m., to 9 p. m. the last day for registration.

Cook County Districts Under the Jurisdiction of the County Clerk

Residents of all other sections of Cook County come under the jurisdiction of the County Clerk of Cook County and may register at the offices of their city, village or town clerks, daily during business hours, up to and including Tuesday, October 11th at the office of the County Clerk, Room 230, County Building, Chicago.

On Tuesday, October 11, final registration day, all such persons may register either at the offices of their city, village or town clerks, and at designated registration places in the larger communities from 6 a. m., to 9 p. m., or at the office of the County Clerk in the County Building in Chicago.

Persons who must register in order to vote November 8 are: Are unregistered citizens, including:

a—Those who become of age prior to election day, Nov. 8.
b—Those who become citizens of the United States.

c—Those who have met the residence requirements for voters, i. e., residence in the State one year, in the County 90 days and in the voting precinct 30 days next preceding the election.

All electors who, after having once registered, have moved from one address to another anywhere within the jurisdiction of the Board of Election Commissioners, must make formal application for a transfer of registration if they wish to vote Nov. 8. Their last opportunity to make application for transfer of registration or for registration is October 10.

Application for transfer of registration must likewise be made on or before Tuesday, Oct. 11 by all persons who after registering have moved from one address to another within the jurisdiction of the County Clerk of Cook County.

All persons who have changed their names by marriage, or otherwise, must re-register in order to vote.

Particular stress is being placed by the election officials of the city and the county on the necessity for those persons who have moved from their former address, to re-register. All such persons must re-register from their present residence in order to vote. This applies equally to those who move within their precincts or from one precinct to another.

Those who move from the city to suburban towns under the jurisdiction of the County Clerk must register in person with their city, village or town clerks or at the office of the County Clerk.

Those who move from the suburbs into the jurisdiction of the Board of Election Commissioners must register at the Election Commissioners' office or at their precinct voting places. The registration systems of the Board of Election Commissioners and of the County Clerk are wholly distinct.

For further information consult the Board of Election Commissioners or the County Clerk's office or the headquarters of the Nonpartisan Citizens' Committee on Registration, 65 West Jackson Boulevard, Harrison 7800

Temperature of Ocean Water
Below a depth of one mile, ocean water remains practically constant in temperature, regardless of latitude.

Ospreys Like Old Homes
Ospreys will return to the same locality, if unmolested, and will rear their young in the same nest, year after year.

POTATOES
Home grown
EARLY OHIO POTATOES
$1.35 per 100 lb. Sack. Small potatoes
60c per sack. Cash and carry. Delivery extra. Get your winter supply now.

Clarence E. Beagley

PLUMBING — HEATING — WIRING

159th Street and 94th Avenue

PHONE 136-J-2

ORLAND PARK

MILK
NATURE'S AMBASSADOR
OF HEALTH

Pure milk and dairy products are exceptionally rich in health giving vitamins . . . truly ambassadors of health!

Purity is a first consideration with us. Beginning with the cows until delivery to you, we use the most modern equipment and scientific methods known.

Drink our milk for its food value—drink it as a refreshing "pick up" beverage. Its purity and excellence is guaranteed.

Our Hydro Vacing Process Assures the Purity Of Our Product

MARTI'S DAIRY, Mokena

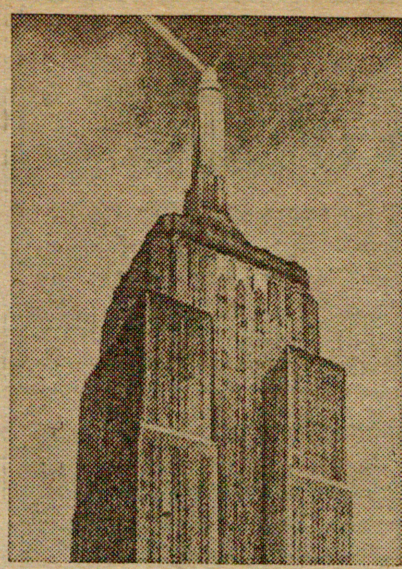

"Does the Widow Jones live here?"

That was the way he put it, this bungling fellow who broke the news of a husband's accidental death.

In a way, it's a joke. But it's one of those jokes when we laugh out of sympathy because the joke grows out of a bitter reality. Telling a woman her husband has just been killed in an accident is a heart-breaking job, as anybody knows who's ever had the assignment.

Twenty-five years ago, in the factory and on the farm, it was a common story—

"He was caught between the

and safety equipment will reduce costs and increase operating efficiency, just as it has been proven in larger industries. This, too, will be a puzzle for delegates.

Other jobs for occupational safety: More research into the causes of occupational accidents and diseases; education of manufacturers to insist that safety be built into every piece of machinery before it is used; and more safety courses in engineering colleges and vocational schools.

Death at the Wheel

Traffic, of course, has become our principal national accident problem. Last year, 39,500 lives were lost in traffic, and an estimated 1,400,000 other citizens of the United States were injured. Council statisticians have estimated that motor vehicle

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Reviewed by CARTER FIELD

President's personal strength with voters still high, notwithstanding his defeats in purge attempts in primaries... Reorganization bill may appear again in modified form... Activities of Lewis and Smith in Mexico stir up Secretary Hull.

WASHINGTON.—A recent poll shows that, despite the victory of every one of the nine Democratic senators who opposed President Roosevelt on the Supreme court issue in their renomination battles, and the failure of such hundred percenters as William G. McAdoo in California, James P. Pope in Idaho, William H. Dieterich in Illinois, Herbert E. Hitchcock in South Dakota, and George L. Berry in Tennessee, the President's personal strength with the voters is still high. In fact the sampling ballots taken indicate that he has more than 50 per cent of the total vote of the two major parties.

The discouraging point about this, to opponents of the President, is that more than a majority of the major party voters favor the President as against an ideal opponent! For example, had they been asked, instead of if they still favor the President, whether they favored him against Herbert C. Hoover, a certain number of those who recorded themselves against the President would have switched to the Roosevelt side. Probably a very considerable number.

Or if the voters questioned in this "sampling" poll had been asked if they favored Roosevelt or Alfred M. Landon undoubtedly many would have moved over to the President's side. Not the same group—as would have moved had the choice been Hoover—but a different group. Similarly, the President would have gained had any conceivable opponent been made the alternative.

Fight on President in Primaries Not Personal

This is obvious on its face. Also it is obvious that the Democrats who voted against the President's wishes in Georgia, Maryland, South Carolina and Iowa, and the two leading Democratic organizations in Illinois that disregarded his wishes and refused to consider Senator Dieterich, cannot be lumped in any group as opposed to the President. For example, Sen. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina has frequently been mentioned as one of the closest men in the entire senate to the President. Many senators so regard him, despite the fact that the President favored Sen. Alben W. Barkley over Byrnes, and of course also over Sen. Pat Harrison, as Democratic leader of the senate.

Yet strongly pro-New Deal and even more strongly pro-Roosevelt Senator Byrnes threw every ounce of influence he could bring to bear to aid the renomination of Sen. Ellison D. Smith, whom the President wanted "purged." No one thinks that the Kelly-Nash organization in Chicago, or the Gov. Henry Horner machine in down-state Illinois, is going to be against the President from now on, just because they ignored his wishes in their own cat and dog fight for control of the Democratic organization in Illinois. No one thinks that Sen. George L. Radcliffe, close personal friend and a business associate of President Roosevelt before he entered politics, who managed Millard E. Tydings' successful fight for renomination, is going to be lined up now with the opposition to the President just because the President fought what Radcliffe was trying to do in Maryland.

The big question now is whether the President, goaded by his non-politically minded inner circle, will show his resentment against the men who helped beat him in the primaries, but are actually still for him. The general opinion is that he will do nothing of the sort.

Bureau Chiefs Breathe Sighs of Relief Now

Lots of important cogs in the administration were rooting under their breaths for the senators President Roosevelt tried to retire to private life. These bureau chiefs and assistants are breathing sighs of relief now, and their relief has nothing to do with whether Mr. Roosevelt wants a third term, or whether he would still like to enlarge the Supreme court. What has been bothering them is the reorganization bill.

It will be recalled that the reorganization bill, which virtually gave the President blanket powers to shift and change any government bureau and commissions he liked, passed the senate but was defeated by a narrow margin—four votes—in the house. One government agency took no chances. The army engineers are old-timers at this sort of thing, so they moved in on the senate, and it was discovered, when the bill emerged from the special committee that handled it, that the army engineers were specifically exempt from the new powers the President was to have been given by the bill.

But most of the worried agencies, bureaus and commissions did not know how to do likewise. Some of them knew but did not have the power. The army engineers have a curious series of personal ties with the elder statesmen on Capitol Hill not possessed by any non-military division of the government. Some of the ranking officers of the corps were appointed to West Point by senators still in the upper house. Some were appointed by former senators, but the ties still exist. And the ranking officers of the corps have been in close touch with nearly all the present senators and members of the house of representatives. They have discussions with them over projects, during committee hearings. They meet them socially, and gravitate together at otherwise dull parties to talk about subject of common interest—generally some river or harbor project back in the legislator's home state that the army officer has studied.

Continuing Friendships Are Thus Built Up

That sort of thing builds up continuing friendships. The men get to like each other. They get to admire each other's work, especially as there is no friction and no element of competition. So naturally the senator or representative lends a willing ear when the officer comes round with an urgent plea that the administration be not allowed to mess his job up—as he sees it. There is the further fact that the legislator risks nothing by granting this favor. It is not an issue at home. If it were made an issue, he would probably be on the right side of it.

But there has been every indication that the President would renew his fight to get the reorganization bill, and was willing not to antagonize the powerful lobby of the army engineers by including them in it. So the other bureaus and commissions and agencies have been worried ever since congress adjourned.

With one or two exceptions the senators that the President would have liked to see beaten because they opposed him on the Supreme court issue opposed him also on the reorganization bill.

Enemies of Labor Board Plan New Line of Attack

A new line of attack on the national labor relations board is about to open as a result of the recent trip to Mexico City of John L. Lewis and Edwin Smith, a member of the board.

The new attack by enemies of the labor board and of C. I. O. may have the support of Cordell Hull, secretary of state. It is charged that it was the influence of Lewis and Smith, with certain other Americans, that has made the task of the state department so difficult in dealing with the Mexican government on the issue of Mexico's seizure of American and other foreign oil properties.

Reports reaching state department officials show that the newspaper accounts of the Mexico City meeting attended by Lewis and Smith did not give an adequate indication of the lengths to which the American visitors went in approving everything Mexico has done. One dispatch spoke of the "venom" with which Edwin Smith attacked every one opposing extremist labor legislation.

Smith praised Mexico as the only country having a capitalistic structure—presumably the only country except the Soviet republic—which has the enlightened courage to insure the rights of all workers.

Reports indicate that Mexican officials prepared an elaborate build-up for Smith prior to and after his speech, which was translated immediately into Spanish and repeated to the meeting for the benefit of the delegates unable to speak English.

Declares Mexicans Lead In Forward Movement

Smith left no doubt in the minds of the delegates that Mexico was in the lead in the forward movement, with the United States tagging along but en route.

John L. Lewis, according to the reports, agreed with Smith in supporting every action the Mexican government has taken. Four million workers in the United States, he told the delegates, had sent him to bring good wishes and encouragement to the Mexican workers. Problems of workers in all countries are similar, he said, and the tactics of big employers the same in no matter what country they may be.

The two great statesmen on the North American continent, he said, are also the two great humanitarians—Roosevelt in the United States and Cardenas in Mexico. Most of the delegates came away with the notion, from Lewis' speech, that the aims of both Roosevelt and Cardenas on behalf of the downtrodden and in the desire to develop national resources for the benefit of all the workers, are such that Roosevelt approved Cardenas' action in seizing the oil properties.

This last statement, according to reliable State department officials, is just about burning up Secretary Hull.

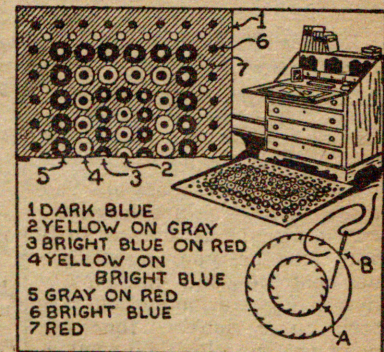

© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

Rug From Old Coat And Scraps of Felt

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

THE directions for making the rug in my book—SEWING, for the Home Decorator, have brought many letters from readers describing rugs that are new to me and very interesting. The reader who shares with us this idea for using pieces of heavy woolen and scraps of felt, tacked her rug to the side of the house and took a snapshot of it which she sent me.

The finished rug is 34 by 23 inches. Half of it is shown here at the upper left. The foundation

(1) is made of the back width of a very heavy old coat. An allowance was made for a hem to add weight to the edge.

Next, circles of felt in two colors, cut from old hats and discarded school pennants, are sewn together with heavy black thread as at A. These are then sewn in place as at B beginning at the center of the foundation. The large circles in the three center rows are two inches in diameter. Those in the next two rows are 1½ inches. All the small circles are one inch.

You can make slipcovers, all types of curtains and many other things for the house with the help of Book 1—SEWING for the Home Decorator. Just follow the pictures. Step by step you learn to make the lovely things you have been wanting for your home. Book 2—Gifts, Novelties and Embroidery—illustrates 90 stitches; also dozens of things you can make in your spare time to use or to sell. Books are 25 cents each. If you order both books leaflet on crazy-patch quilts will be included free. Address: Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

Our Presidents

—A—
Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, John Quincy Adams, Van Buren and Buchanan served as secretary of state.
Grant and Taft served as secretary of war, and Hoover as secretary of commerce.
Nine Presidents of the United States were born to very poor families. The others were born in varied circumstances, mostly middle class folks. Washington became one of the great landowners of his day. Abraham Lincoln entered the White House almost penniless, but since the Civil War most of our Presidents have been men of moderate means.

A Shortcoming
It is a great evil not to be able to bear an evil.—Bion.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nationwide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

WNU—A

40—38

A Sure Index of Value

... is knowledge of a manufacturer's name and what it stands for. It is the most certain method, except that of actual use, for judging the value of any manufactured goods. Here is the only guarantee against careless workmanship or use of shoddy materials.

Buy

ADVERTISED GOODS

SAFETY'S BIRTHDAY

crane and the wall... He was piling sheets of steel when they fell over... The horse bolted when he was cleaning the mower... Nobody saw, but he must of been oiling it when the ram come down...

In something like 35,000 homes during 1913, there came a knock on the door, a man with his hat in hand, not knowing how to break the news.

Aroused by the horrible tragedy of these accidents, and, on the other side of the picture, by their wasteful cost to industry, a small group of men met that year and determined to do something about it. Their determination gave birth to the National Safety Council. With two men, a stenographer and a battered typewriter, the council started out like David against a towering Goliath—Accidents.

Working on the fundamental assumption that for every accident there is a cause—and a cure—they fought inch by inch against the hopeless pessimism of men who thought that wherever there was industry there would be accidents.

That was 25 years ago.

This year the largest safety assembly in the history of the world is celebrating the silver anniversary of that founding. Ten thousand men and women from London to Los Angeles are meeting in Chicago for five days beginning October 10 at the National Safety Council's silver jubilee congress.

The Accomplishment

Before them will rise a 13-foot birthday cake, but behind them will stand a greater monument—a record of 285,000 lives saved in those 25 years—a cityful of human beings who would not have been alive today had accidents continued at the 1913 level. Considering industry's tremendous growth since 1913 and the probability that increased technology would otherwise have brought an even greater accident rate, this figure of 285,000 seems very modest indeed.

And this campaign against accidents has not been confined to industry. Gradually the work has spread into every department of human life. Once it was understood that accidents could be prevented by a common-sense safety program, people realized that what was being done in industry could be done in the home, on the streets and highways and in other public places. This development was hastened by business men's realization that quite as many of their men were losing time from injuries at home and going to and from work as from accidents in the plant.

Traffic deaths—around 4,000 in 1913—doubled the following year, tripled the next, and reached a peak 10 times as great before preventive work could pull the curve downward.

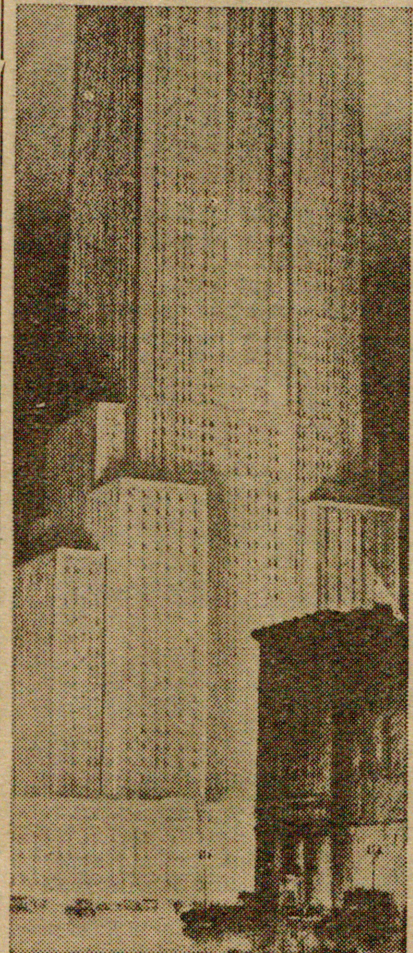

Farm accidents mounted by leaps and bounds to the point where nearly one-fourth of all occupational deaths happened on the farm.

The home—which we think of as a haven of safety—became one of the worst accident locations of all, threatening even to surpass traffic accidents in annual fatalities.

And so the safety movement grew into one of the vital forces of America, entrusted with the responsibility of conserving human life.

But still it has only begun. Members of the council are quick to say their work has only scratched the surface. Last year alone, they point out, accidents took 106,000 lives in America—one in each 300 families, on the average.

The cost of these accidents averaged $115 for each family in the nation—a grand total of $3,500,000,000! And the pain and suffering involved in 106,000 deaths cannot be expressed in any mathematical figure. While accidents continue to disable one member of every fourth family in the country in one year, there's still a big job for safety.

Money wasted in 1937 traffic accidents would have built 35 Empire State buildings, or 250 ocean liners like the Normandie. It was equivalent to destruction of a city like Waltham, Mass., or Santa Monica, Calif.

Planning the Future

Thus, though in a jubilant mood over the reductions achieved during the past year in traffic, public and occupational accidents, delegates will turn aside from their celebration of the council's twenty-fifth birthday to chart a future course.

What will safety bring in the next quarter century? How far can it go toward cutting still further our annual sacrifice of lives to accidents? What new things will it bring into our work and our daily habits?

Farms and small businesses will receive more attention in the future, the council believes. If accident prevention had been given the same attention in agriculture and in all small businesses as it was given by the railroads, public utilities and larger manufacturing plants, the total of lives saved would have been very much greater.

Last year, 4,500 farmers were killed in accidents. Machinery was responsible for more than a quarter of these—tractors, circular saws, combines, discs, etc. Almost as many were killed by animals.

No other industrial group except the trade and service industries accounted for so many fatalities; in all manufacturing there were only 2,600 deaths.

The accident record for farmers, in relation to exposure, is not so good as that of workers in manufacturing industries. Farmers work about half again as many man-hours during the year but they have three-fourths again as many deaths. Although exact calculations are out of the question, it is estimated that the occupational death rate is about 15 per cent higher for agriculture than for manufacturing.

The geographical spread of farmers and their comparative isolation makes slow work of safety education in agriculture. How to reach farmers with safety information, with reminders on the safe use of machinery and the safe handling of animals, will be one of a big problem for the congress.

Similarly with small business men. It is harder to convince small operators that safety pays—that money invested in safety instruction accidents cost us $1,700,000,000 last year.

Illustrated here are two common accident causes, one agricultural, one industrial. Left: stooping in front of a mowing machine, hoping the horses don't run away and cut off your legs. Right: A razor-sharp paper cutting machine, which would nip off a worker's fingers in a split-second.

These are the highest figures ever reached. The death toll is four-fifths as great as American losses in the World War. It is equivalent to the destruction of a city like Waltham, Mass., or Santa Monica, Calif.

The money wasted in 1937 traffic accidents would have built 35 Empire State buildings, or 250 ocean liners like the Normandie.

More and more cities and states, however, are keeping good accident records and thus learning more about how and why accidents occur.

But the traffic problem still is a challenge. The council has proved that accidents can be reduced wherever a state or community is willing to apply a well-rounded, scientific program. And for the first eight and one-half months of 1938 the nation as a whole has experienced a 20 per cent reduction in traffic deaths below the same months for the preceding year, without any decrease in travel as measured by gasoline consumption.

That this reduction is but a small part of what might have been achieved had we been able to apply what we have even thus far learned about traffic accidents, is shown by the experience of cities and states which have, through the application of balanced programs, effected savings of upwards of 50 per cent in their traffic fatalities within the short space of a year. Thus the lag between what we know about accidents and what we are doing about them is costing us something like 13,000 lives this year.

Therefore, one of the principal problems facing the delegates as they look into the future will be getting across to the public information already developed about traffic accidents, and enlisting the public, more than ever before in the war against accidents.

But research—statistical, engineering and psychological—into the cause and cure of accidents must go forward. New developments, like the chemical tests to show when drivers have been drinking, better cars and safer highways, scientific methods of eliminating night hazards, will be one phase of the attack. Another will be a continuation of the campaign for uniform traffic laws, including standard drivers' license laws, accident reporting, road rules, signs and signals; for regular inspection of all motor vehicles; and for more safety training in schools, with driving instructions for every high school student.

In home accidents, safety workers face a problem similar to that involved in agriculture. The fact that most home accidents do not come to official notice unless hospitalized makes it difficult to collect accurate data. And like the farmer, the housewife is isolated in her household and cannot easily be reached by broadcast methods of safety education. But in recent years, through women's clubs, through home magazines, women's pages in newspapers and housekeeping broadcasts, an increasing attempt has been made to familiarize housewives with the principal hazards of their own homes. Looking into the future, the delegates must plan how to intensify this campaign, and how to carry the safety idea to contractors and architects so that homes of the future will be built with safety in mind.

Does it sound like a Herculean task? Perhaps it is, but to men and women who have been responsible for an almost continuous drop in accidents in the face of America's tremendous growth during the past quarter century, the accomplishments of the past stand as a challenge for the future.

© Western Newspaper Union.

A Matter of Menus

By SMITH JONES
© D. J. Walsh—WNU Service.

MRS. CHARLES BURTON was becoming very unhappy. She was growing suspicious that her husband no longer loved her. It wasn't the perennial doubt of the too recently married. It was a solid conviction based on the fact that he seemed distraught at table. And Charles Burton had a good, hefty appetite.

Caroline Burton was a good cook. Indeed the stalwart Charles had made certain of this fact before he asked her to share his $50 a week. He was an abstemious man. But he loved his food.

Caroline could roast and bake and make most creditable pies. Her lemon pie had always (until this recent strange silence had fallen on her mate) evoked enthusiastic comment. Now, although she served it three times weekly, Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays, it passed unpraised.

SHORT SHORT STORY

Complete in This Issue

Her heart was broken. She spoke to one of her neighbors but regretted it instantly as it brought down on her a flood of invective—on men in general and their fickleness in particular. Her neighbor was an ailing woman who had nearly driven her husband to distraction with her perpetual nagging. Caroline determined to write to the newspaper. Surely "Marise Marion" (could her name really be as pretty as that? she wondered; and was she as "lovely" as she wrote?) might solve her problem.

So she wrote a laborious letter. She found her "year in high school" of which she bragged so proudly, had ill-fitted her for composing letters to lovely ladies who wrote advice for newspapers.

It was pathetic to see her watch the paper for her reply. "I've told her how I feed him lemon pie," she said to herself. "Surely she'll see he is well treated."

At last "Perplexed" received her answer, and she was surprised to see that her letter had been referred to the cookery expert. "You are not giving your husband sufficient variety in his dinners," wrote that Olympian, and poor Mrs. Burton was delighted to see that menus were appended from which she might vary her lord's menus.

"Flavorings?" she declared to herself. "I doubt if poor Charlie knows about them, but I'll try. Let's see, calves' liver is fairly cheap. I'll try him with liver and onions, and afterwards, apple dumplings. I must learn to 'balance' foods, I suppose, though for all the world it sounds to me like a juggler, and I never did like to see jugglers; seems as though they were tempting providence throwing plates and good useful things around. But I can't lose my Charles' affections, and if balanced meals will do the trick, why, balanced they're going to be, that's all."

And she was rewarded. For Charles gave an audible sniff of appreciation when he entered the house and he smiled as he kissed his little wife instead of looking bored.

When he sat down to table he fairly beamed at the succulent liver and onions before him and the large baked potatoes, topped by paprika, a thing that poor Caroline had never heard of prior to her letter from the cochantress on the Morning Griffin.

And when the apple dumplings appeared he melted completely and suggested a movie that very evening, telling his wife that he had been given a raise at the office and asking her why she had never thought of such a dinner before.

"I tried to give you what you liked, dear," she said. "I thought you were just crazy about lemon pies."

"Don't speak of them," he cried. "I've been kind of anxious—well, it seemed we had lemon pie every night. I never want to see another. Plum pie, now, or raisin, but let's have some variety."

Mrs. Burton glowed. Her respect for her morning paper soared and soared. Never again would she giggle over the silly girls who wrote to lovely newspaper ladies for advice. She felt like writing her gratitude to, what was her name? O "Constance Conversant" . . . She wondered if all newspaper ladies had marvelous names like that—but perhaps it would not be necessary. Writing was such a trial! No. She would just put those ideas into practice. She put on her hat and coat for the movie in a glow of delight. Forty wasn't so old! And anyway, she wasn't sickly like poor Mrs. Squibbs, so why shouldn't she manage to keep her husband from "straying" with the best of them?

"Here, how much longer are you going to be primping?" called Charles.

She hurried down and shook hands with herself all through a weepful movie (Caroline loved weepful movies) on accomplishing happy domestic life by a change in menus.

SPEAKING OF BIRDS . . .

● There's really no blue or green in their feathers, but sun rays, rain or a blue sky can make our nesting friends colorful as a peacock!

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

THERE is no blue pigment in the feathers of birds; neither, with rare exceptions, is there any green. The only pigment colors in ordinary birds' feathers are reds and yellows and blacks, and all the other colors are due either to a combination of these or to the superficial structure of the feathers overlying some other pigment.

Blue feathers, for example, contain only brown or blackish pigment overlaid by a layer of prismatic cells which reflect only blue light rays. Sometimes the structure is that of minute pits on the surface of the feathers. When they become filled with water during a rain, they lose their refractive power, and the birds, apparently, change from blue to white, as in the tropical swallow tanagers.

Again, the blue color is due to minute air spaces in the superficial layer of cells, just as the blueness of the sky is due to minute dust particles, and the blueness of the milk on the boarding house table to the minute cream droplets. So long as our blue birds remain between us and the source of light, they are not blue birds at all and therefore may go unnoticed.

Yellow birds are usually conspicuous because our eyes are very sensitive to yellow. But many birds have a blue-producing structure overlaid by a yellow pigment, so that the combination sends green light to our eyes. Then we say these birds are green. Wet the back of a parrot and it becomes brown, or scratch the surface of one of the green feathers with a knife and a dark mark is left. This is not because any green pigment is scratched off, but because the yellow and the prismatic cells have been removed and the dark layer beneath exposed.

But there seem to be many red birds among these tanagers and finches. Why do we not see them more often? Certainly we have no trouble seeing a red traffic light—indeed, most of them seem to be that color when we are in a hurry. There are some reds, such as the iridescent throats of the hummingbirds, for which the structure of the feathers is responsible. But most reds, such as those of the tanagers and finches, are due to pigment, and they register as red under all light conditions. To be really effective, however, the red must be exposed to direct sunlight.

Should a scarlet tanager alight in the middle of a sunlit lawn or a cardinal fly across the open space in a garden, either bird would attract attention, but most of the time they are sitting among the shadows of green leaves, where they are poorly lighted. The sunlight is reflected from the leaves more readily than from the birds, especially since our eyes are peculiarly sensitive to greens.

Winter Markings

During the winter many birds have their conspicuous marks veiled by gray edges to the feathers. These edges break off during the spring, exposing the color underneath. The male house sparrow, for example, in winter seems to have only a narrow line of black on his throat, because the rest of his black cravat is concealed by the gray tips of the feathers, which break off during April.

Red finches display no such gray edges to the feathers. But upon examining a feather with a lens, one will find that the red pigment occurs only in the main branches of the leaflike structure, the parts called the shaft and the barbs, while the more minute branches, or barbules, are gray. As these barbules wear off, the barbs with their color become more exposed and the feathers apparently get brighter. Thus the red finches (the purple finch, house finch, and redpolls) apparently brighten as spring advances.

Thus the summer tanager male remains red throughout the year, and so do the cardinal, the purple finch, the pine grosbeak, and the crossbills. The yellow evening grosbeak never becomes gray like his mate, once he has acquired maturity, though the male goldfinch does.

No one has yet advanced a satisfactory explanation for these differences in seasonal styles among the males, but the inference is that the females are dully colored so as not to attract attention to the nest. Usually the brilliantly colored males in this family never assist in incubating the eggs, but even here there are exceptions, as in the rose-breasted and black-headed grosbeaks. Males of these birds not only sit on the eggs, but even break all rules of bird conduct by singing as they do so.

Grosbeak Mortality

Whether because of the singing, or because of the bright colors of the incubating male, or because of the general fragility of the nest, there is a relatively high nest mortality among the rose-breasted grosbeaks, and some years very few young are reared. Then the species becomes scarce, because grosbeaks are not so persistent about re-nesting as are some other birds.

For their nest in the west, a pair of enterprising Los Angeles sparrows selected an electric switch box which the owner immediately shut off to prevent electrocution. Two fledglings are shown above, in their novel nest.

There is no one place in North America where all of the birds here mentioned can be found. The pyrrhuloxia, hepatic tanager, beautiful bunting, and Sharpe's seedeater, for example, are not found very far north of the Mexican border.

The lazuli bunting, black-headed grosbeak, western tanager, rosy finch, house finch, green-backed and Lawrence's goldfinches are birds of the Pacific coast and the Rocky mountain region, while the rose-breasted grosbeak, scarlet tanager, and indigo bunting are primarily birds of the eastern United States.

It is difficult to explain why each species has a restricted summer home when it is free to come and go as it pleases and often migrates extensively. It is still more difficult to explain how this whole group of birds got into North America originally. Certain of them, such as the tanagers, the cardinals, the blue, rose-breasted, and black-headed grosbeaks, and the "buntings," have close relatives in Central and South America and none in the Old world. Hence, we feel that our species came originally from the south. Furthermore, most of them are quite migratory and tend to return to the land of their ancestors each winter.

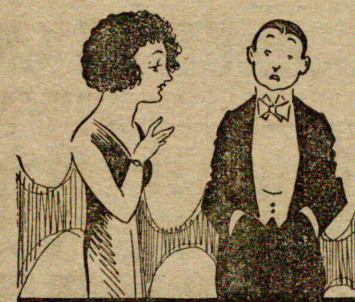

A picture of evening grosbeaks at Whitefish Lake, Mich., taken with telephoto lens. The camera has aided man immeasurably in his study of bird life.

NO FOOTRACE

She—Why do you think it would be a good time to ask father's consent when we're in bathing, Percy?
Percy—Well, he will have his shoes off, you see, and I know I can out-swim him any time.

CAMERA!

He—I often sit for hours and dream of how happy we'll be when we're married.
She—If you'll cut out the dreaming, we'll be married sooner.

ON THE BENCH

Baseball Fan—You call that a picked team? They're the greenest bunch I ever saw!
Captain—Well—er—I guess they were picked before they were ripe.

UP AND OVER

"Say, fellers! This is the best pond we've found yet."

NOT COLOR BLIND

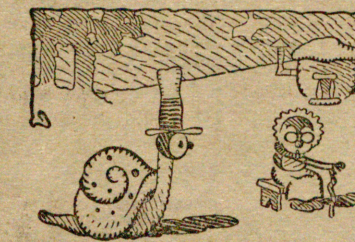

Miss Primm—What's wrong with these girls who paint themselves so crudely?
Mr. Primm—Off color, I'd say.

PLENTY OF CHANCES

"I want to be an angel."
"Musical comedy or burlesque?"

VIA A STREET CAR

Snail—Great Scot, I started out to see my best girl, and when I get here, she's somebody's grandmother.

ROUND AND ROUND

"Mr. Hatte is very fond of music."
"How so?"
"Well, he always has a band around him."

What to Eat and Why

C. Houston Goudiss Relates the Romance of Wheat and Discusses Flour, the Basic Food

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

THE story of wheat flour is the story of civilization. Before man learned to cultivate this golden grain, he was obliged to move from place to place, with the seasons, in search of food to sustain and nourish his body.

Then, on one happy and momentous occasion, perhaps 6,000 years ago, an inspired nomad plucked the kernels clustered at the top of some waving grasses, observed that they had a nut-like taste, and passed along the far-reaching discovery to his fellow-tribesmen.

The beginnings of wheat cultivation are lost in antiquity. But we do know that for thousands of years, it has been one of the most important crops in the world—so necessary to man's well being that the supplication, "Give us this day our daily bread," has summed up his most fervent desires.

Food for the World

Today, nearly three quarters of a billion people use wheat as food. And modern methods of milling have developed flours of such superlative quality that breads are more appetizing and more attractive than ever before; special flours make cakes and pastries light as the proverbial feather; and there are prepared mixes available for biscuits, waffles, muffins, griddle cakes, pie crust and gingerbread.

For Energy and Vitality

The form in which wheat flour makes its appearance on the table is of less importance than the fact that it is and should be an essential item in the family food supply. That is because it offers a rich supply of fuel value at little cost. The different types of flour contain from 61 to 76 per cent carbohydrates, from 11 to 15 per cent protein, and varying amounts of mineral salts and vitamins.

It is necessary to know something of the structure of the wheat kernel and to understand how the various flours differ, in order to select the flour best suited for each purpose. A kernel is made up of several outer layers of bran; a layer of cells high in phosphorus and protein, just inside the bran; the endosperm, composed of cells in which starch granules are held together by proteins; and the germ. The starch cells are so small that one kernel of wheat may contain as many as 20,000,000 granules.

White and Whole Wheat Flours

White flour is made chiefly from the endosperm. Whole-wheat, entire-wheat and graham flours are loosely applied terms which refer both to products made by grinding the wheat berry without the removal or addition of any ingredient, and also to a flour from which part of the bran has been removed or to which bran has been added.

One of the most prolonged discussions of the last two decades has involved arguments for and against the use of white or whole wheat flour in making various types of bread and muffins. As a result, many people have been confused and misled—often at the expense of their enjoyment in meals.

Here are the facts: White bread contains important energy values, proteins, some minerals, chiefly potassium and phosphorus, and when made with milk, it also supplies some calcium. It is easily and almost completely digested, tests indicating an average digestibility of 96 per cent.

Bread and other bakery products made from whole wheat flour also contain proteins and carbohydrates, plus good amounts of iron, copper, phosphorus and potassium; and vitamins A, B and G.

The whole grain products are less completely digested than those which are highly refined, however, so some of their nutrients may be lost to the body.

When the two types of flour are considered as sources of protein and energy alone, they are regarded by nutritionists as practically interchangeable. Whole wheat flour is conceded to be richer in minerals and vitamins, but where white bread is preferred, these elements easily can be supplied from other sources.

As a matter of fact, foods made from both types of flour belong in the well-balanced diet, where they add variety and splendid food values at minimum cost. And it goes without saying that for many purposes, only white flour is suitable.

Bread Versus Pastry Flour

Different types of wheat differ in their proportions of protein and carbohydrates, and that accounts for the difference between bread and pastry flours. Bread flour is made from wheat containing a large amount of gluten, which gives elasticity to a dough and helps to make a well-piled loaf. Pastry flour contains less gluten and more starch and has a lighter texture that produces fine-grained cakes. All-purpose flours, as their name implies, are usually a blend of different types of wheat and are designed for general household use.

A Symbol of Progress

It is a tribute to American enterprise that the world's largest flour mills are now to be found in this country, and that tremendous staffs of technicians and research chemists supervise every step in the preparation of the flour which may pass through as many as 17 grindings and be subjected to 180 separations.

Experts begin by checking the quality of the grain while it is in transit to the mill. But their work does not end when the flour emerges pure white in color and unbelievably fine in texture, after having passed through silk bolting cloths of 100 mesh or finer. After that, there are baking tests, day after day, to be sure that every sack which is sold is of uniformly high quality.

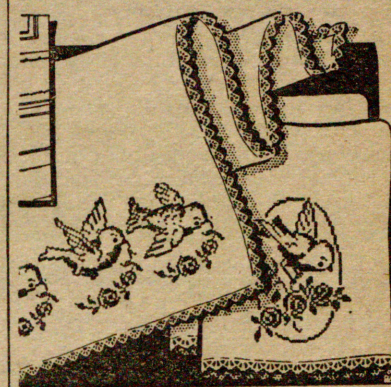

Self-Rising Flours

An interesting development of recent years has been the self-rising flours and other ready-to-use mixtures. Some of these contain only a leavener; others include dried milk and eggs; fat; and baking powder, so that only a liquid is needed. All are planned to save the homemaker's time and maintain her family's interest in their most important energy food—the products of wheat—the foremost cereal grain.

©—WNU—C. Houston Goudiss—1938—31.

For Dainty Linens

These bluebirds have a charm all their own. Cross stitch them in soft colors (shades of one color or varied colors) on scarf, towels, pillow cases, or cloths and enjoy the pride of possession! Pattern 6032 contains a transfer pattern of 12 motifs ranging from 4 1/4 by 1 1/2 inches to 1 1/2 by 1 1/2 inches; illustrations of stitches; materials required; color schemes.

To obtain this pattern, send 15 cents in stamps or coins (coins preferred) to The Sewing Circle, Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th Street, New York, N. Y.

TUNE IN!

every Mon. through Fri. at 12:15 P.M. C.S.T.

Goodyear Farm

Radio News

—weather reports—crop reports—market tips—

rounding out the service of the National Farm & Home Hour

On WMAQ WGL WLSA WLW

Bargains YES!

You find them announced in the columns of this paper by merchants of our community who do not feel they must keep the quality of their merchandise or their prices under cover. It is safe to buy of the merchant who ADVERTISES.

BREMEN TWP. RESIDENT DIES AT AGE OF 69

John Fahrenholz, aged 69 years, widely known farmer of Bremen Township, died Tuesday evening at 5:30 o'clock in his home on Oak Park avenue north of Tinley Park, following a brief attack of pneumonia.

Mr. Fahrenholz had been engaged in harvesting work and appeared to be in his usual good health when he suddenly was stricken the latter part of the week. Oxygen tanks were rushed to the home but this aid was too late and could not check the ravages of the disease.

Mr. Fahrenholz was born June 28, 1869 in Martzfeldt, Hanover, Germany. At the age of 16 years, he emigrated to America with his parents, first locating at Matteson, Ill., where he resided for about two years. Later he located in Chicago and then came to Tinley Park. He was united in marriage with Miss Sophia Lembke on January 26, 1884 after which the couple located in Chicago. Later they returned to Bremen Township, locating on a farm on 159th and Harlem. About 40 years ago they located at their present home site on a farm on Oak Park avenue.

Surviving are the widow; two sons, Fred and John; 2 grandchildren; 1 sister residing in Germany.

Funeral services will be held this Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Trinity Lutheran church in Bach elors Grove with Rev. Martin Fric officiating. Burial will be made in the Trinity Lutheran cemetery.

Woman's Club Invited To Palos

All members of the Orland Park Womens club are cordially invited and urged to attend the outdoor event-Palos Pioneers in Review sponsored by the Palos Park Womens club of which Mrs. Harry Crowley is president, on Thursday, October 13, at twelve o'clock at Swallow Cliff.

Arrangements have been made to have all cars parked near the Ski jump. From there the group will be conveyed to the picnic ground by racks. A forty cent luncheon will be served and each person is asked to bring her own cup, fork, spoon and napkin.

The afternoon program will begin at two o'clock. Mrs. Geo. B. Ward of Palos Park, who is Conservation chairman of the Third District, will be the Chairman of the day. Mrs. E. E. Byerum, State Conservation chairman is to be the guest of honor and will speak.

There will be no regular business meeting of the Orland Park Womens club at Creer Hall on Thursday, October 13. It was decided the Orland Park club would forego holding a business meeting in order to accept the invitation of the Palos Park Womens club to attend their large outdoor conservation program.

Mrs. Paul T. Sanders represented the Orland Park Womens club at Conference Headquarters, 30 W. Washington Street, on Thursday, September 29. Mrs. Ella Loebe, President of the Orland Park Club was unable to attend because of a conflicting prior engagement. Mrs. M. Glenn Harding, Press and Publicity Chairman was unable to be present due to illness.

Morning Star To Celebrate 29th Anniversary

Report of the Peter McCarthy Morning Star Mission for the month of September by Supt. Peter H. McCarthy:

Conversions, 31; Free Meals, 470; Free Clothing, 43; Relief to 10 families and paid bus and railroad fares for six persons.

The Mission will celebrate its 29th anniversary November 18, 19 and 20.

A First Food Family

Cheese has a right to its claim as one of America's First Food Families. A generous supply of cheese came over on the Mayflower, along with a live cow to provide fresh milk for the children. The ancient bill of sale for the provisioning of the Mayflower is still held by an American cheese company.

PETE PARENTI'S TAVERN

FOR A REAL ITALIAN SNACK—SEE PETE.

CHOICE AND IM. JRTED WINES AND LIQUORS. REASONABLE PRICES. COME AND SEE US.

NOW IS THE TIME—To check furnaces and gutters!
Estimates cheerfully given

See—Geo. E. Zobac
SHEET METAL CONTRACTOR

6555 W. 175th St. Tinley Park, Ill. Telephone 84-J.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNER-SHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC., REQUIRED BY THE ACTS OF CONGRESS OF AUGUST 1912.

Of the News Bulletin, published weekly at Mokena, Illinois, for October 1, 1938.

Before me, a Notary Public in and for the State and county aforesaid, personally appeared Wm. Semmler, who having been duly sworn according to law deposes and says that he is the Editor—Publisher of the News-Bulletin and that the following is to the best of his knowledge and beliefs, a true statement of the ownership, management, etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, as amended by the Act of March 3, 1933, embodied in section 537, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are: Publisher, Wm. Semmler, Mokena, Ill. Editor, Wm. Semmler, Mokena, Ill.

2. That the owner is: (If owned by a corporation, its name and address must be stated and also immediately thereunder the names and addresses of stockholders owning or holding one per cent or more of total amount of stock. If not owned by a corporation the names and addresses of the individual owners must be given. If owned by a firm, company, or other unincorporated concern, its name and address, as well as those of each individual member, must be given.) Wm. Semmler, Mokena, Ill.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: (If there are none, so state). None.

WM. SEMMLER

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 4th day of October, 1938.

Otto A. Bartels, Notary Public.
(My commission expires Oct. 29, 1939.)

(SEAL)

UNFAIR

(Continued from front page)

This method is decidedly unfair to the tax payers of Will county as well as to the country press. It seems Wirth only knew these papers when he had free publicity matter to get across.

One of the papers which was given the lion's share of the delinquent tax lists turned on Wirth and has been panning him every week since. That's the thanks Wirth got for being a good fellow to that particular paper.

Much criticism of Wirth's administration is being heard in various parts of Will county, much of it coming directly from the Democrats themselves.

Will County Home Bureau To Meet October 11

The Will County Home Bureau will hold Organization Day on October 11 at the First Baptist church in Joliet.

Mrs. Kathryn Van Aken Burns, State Leader of Home Advisers, University of Illinois and Mrs. John Clifton, president of Illinois Home Bureau Federation will be guest speakers.

An interesting program has been arranged. A cordial invitation is extended to anyone desiring to attend.

Why Not Live?

Donald H. Barnett, first aid field representative of the Chicago chapter, American Red Cross, will speak on first aid and accident prevention, at the meeting of the Orland Park P. T. A. to be held at 8 o'clock, on Thursday evening, October 13.

Mr. Barnett will also stage a first aid demonstration with the assistance of Boy Scouts and present the latest Red Cross sound motion picture, "Why Not Live?" This production depicts the Red Cross first aid and safety program.

MERCHANTS
WISE
Advertise!

Hick & Mesenbrink's

Free Delivery 9 a. m.—2 p. m. Tinley Park, Ill. Phone 114

Swift's Premium	SMALL PORK LOIN	LB. 25¢
	WHOLE OR EITHER END
POT ROAST	LB. 22¢;	RIB ROAST LB. 25¢
PORK SHOULDER ROAST		LB. 23¢
LAMB SHOULDER ROAST		LB. 20¢
LAMB FOR STEW	-	LB. 10¢
ROUND STEAK	- -	LB. 32¢
SIRLOIN STEAK	-	LB. 32¢

FRESH FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

SCHMUTTE'S GROCERY & MARKET

TINLEY PARK, ILL.

FREE DELIVERY—10 a. m. to 2 p. m. Call Tinley Park 49R

POT ROAST	LB. 22¢	ROUND STEAK	LB. 32¢
SAVOY Vacuum Pak	COFFEE 1 LB TIN	25¢
GOOD WHIPPET DRESSING	1 QT	38¢

WITH BUTTER DISH FREE

FANCY FRESH VEGETABLES AND FRUITS AT ALL TIMES

Phone Tinley Park 50

Trade

and

Save

Friday & Saturday Specials

BUTTER, ⁹² SCORE	LB. ROLL	29¢
SAWYERS SODA CRACKERS	2 LB	15¢
COOKIES	LB.	15¢
POST TOASTIES	2 LARGE PKGS.	17¢
IVORY SOAP,	2 10¢ BARS	15¢
PALMOLIVE SOAP	2 BARS	11¢
KEN-L-RATION DOG FOOD	1 can Free
NAPKINS	80 IN PACKAGE	9¢
RINSO,	2 PKG	39¢
CRACKER JACK	3 BOXES	10¢

DR. CLAYTON S. ENOCH

DENTIST

SCHRIEBER BUILDING

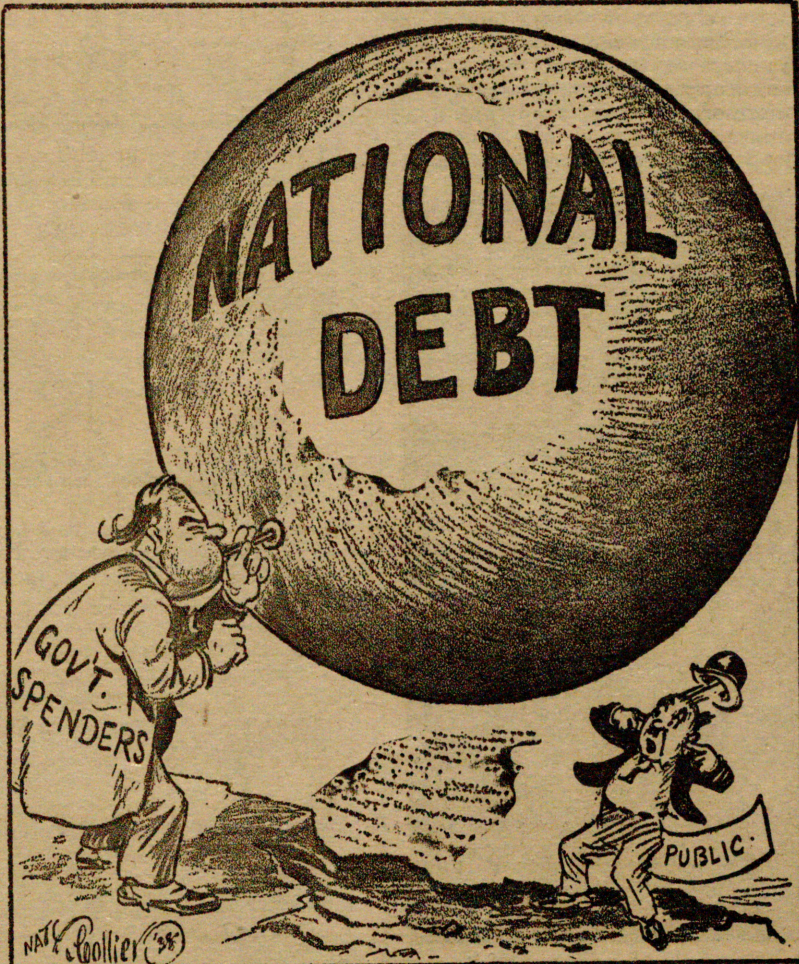

Office Hours: 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Telephone No. 1

17324 OAK PARK AVE.

TINLEY PARK, ILL.

NEWS ITEM: National Debt Reaches New All Time High, and Still Going Up.

Specials Oct. 7th, & Oct. 8th

BUTTER, FRESH CREAMERY	2 LB. 51¢
SPRY SHORTENING	Lb 18¢, 3 lb. can 49¢
PURASNOW	Milk Pitcher FREE 24 lb. 81¢
PILLSBURY	O GOLD 5 lb 19¢
	R MEDAL bag
CHASE & SANBORN	LB. CAN 23¢
OUR SPECIAL BRAND	LB 13¢
SUGAR	10 LB. CLOTH BAG 48¢
COOKIES, LARGE ASSORT.	2 LBS. 27¢
MILK, PETER PAN	4 TALL CANS 25¢
CRACKERS, SUNRAY	2 LB BOX 15¢
RINSO, 1 LARGE & 1 SMALL PKG	20¢
OXYDOL, O American Family	FLAKES PKG 19¢
KRAFT American 2 lb	45¢
KRAFT VELVEETA	2 1-2 lb. box 29¢
KRAFT DINNER	MACARONI and 2 31¢
CANVAS GLOVES	for Corn husking PR. 10,15,20¢
1 pair Canvas gloves with each dozen purchased
WHITE POTATOES,	15 LB. PK. 19¢
ORANGES, SUNKIST	DOZ. 18¢
JONAHHANS	4 LBS 19¢
COOKING	4 LBS. 15¢
LEMONS, LARGE SUNKIST	DOZ 20¢
GRAPEFRUIT, CALIFORNIA	4 FOR 19¢
APPLES, LARGE KINGS	BUSHEL $1.39
BANANAS, LG GOLDEN RIPE	LB 5¢

Vogt's Dept. Store

TELEPHONE, TINLEY PARK 75

FRED GOEBEL, AGENCY

If you have an automobile

HIGHWAYS ARE HAPPY WAYS

First, (Drive carefully) Second, (Carry Insurance)

On Ford, Dodge, Chevrolet, Plymouth; Oldsmobile

5000 10000 Liability$19.00

5000 Property Damages 7.00

Total premium per year$26.00

Farmers only—for one year.....$19.00

"Better Be Safe Than Sorry"

Dini's Tavern

TINLEY PARK - ILLINOIS BUDWEISER BEER

We serve tasty spaghetti and ravioli at all times.

SANDWICHES OF ALL KINDS

Fish Fry Every Friday Night

MILLER'S Service Station

Corner 83rd and Oak Park

TINLEY PARK

Open for Business

MOBILE GAS AND OIL

Your Patronage Solicited

A. R. BOVIK DENTIST

OFFICE HOURS:

Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Tuesday and Friday 9 a. m. to 11:30 a. m.

VOGT BUILDING, TINLEY PARK

Phone Tinley Park 109-W

Tinley Park Bottling Works

Established 1889

C. Goebel & Son-1905

Mfgs. of High Grade Soda Water, Selzer and Ginger Ale

Sweetened with pure cane sugar.

Order a case for your home—

Lemon, Strawberry, Cream, Cherry

Orange, Lime, Grape and Root Beer.

24, 7 1/2 oz. bottles, Soda Water, per case 60c

12, 24 oz. bottles, Soda Water, per case 90c

12, 24 oz. bottles, Pale Dry Ginger Ale$1.00

GOEBEL'S SODA WATER ARE ALWAYS GOOD.

Permanents, Finger Waving, Shampoos.

Manicures, Facials

Open Evenings by appointment up to 9 p. m. Close at 6 p. m. on Monday and 8 p. m. on Saturdays.

Bernetta's Beauty Shoppe

6704—173rd Street

Phone 16-W

Tinley Park, Illinois

USE OUR WANT ADS FOR BEST RESULTS.